GERMANY AND JAPAN

SOVIET GIVES A WARNING

RUSSIAN VIEWS

Moscow, Dec. 28.

The Soviet's suspicions of Japan were again voiced today, this time at the opening of the session of the Central Executive Committee.

A sharp contrast between the improvement in the relations of the Soviet with France and Poland, with the threat contained in the present attitude of both Germany and Japan was drawn by M. Molotov, the President of the C.E.C.

M. Molotov added that Russia's relations with England were satisfactory; despite the sharpening relations at the time of the Metropolitan-Vickers affairs, and trade negotiations were now proceeding normally.

The Soviet Government spokesman asserted that the League of Nations had proved to be a brake on "the war-like intentions of Germany and Japan."

JAPANESE FEARS.

He also declared that Japanese elements obviously feared the consequences of Soviet cooperation with the United States and China in the Far East.

The United States recognition of the Soviet Government was, he said, the outstanding success of the year and he referred to M. Litvinoff's role in the negotiations in terms which evoked a remarkable manifestation of acclamation by the eight hundred delegates attending the session of the C.E.C.—Reuter.

WINS $100,000 IN STATE LOTTERY

Shanghai, Dec. 29.

In the presence of a huge excited crowd, the drawing of the Third State Lottery began at the Casino this morning.

Chinese and foreign announcers broadcasted the results to crowds groups throughout the city.

The first big prize drawn was one of the second prizes of $100,000 each, the lucky number being 138990.—Reuter.

The other second prize was drawn by No. 68244.—Reuter.

REPORT NOT CONFIRMED

REBELS WITHDRAWING FROM FOCHOW?

RIVAL FORCES WARMING UP

Shanghai, Dec. 29.

The China Press gives great prominence to a report "received by the local naval offices last night" to the effect that Nanking naval forces have occupied Amoy and other strategic points along the Fukien coast.

It is claimed that the captures were effected without resistance from the rebels, who had previously evacuated.

The report adds that the seat of the rebel government has been moved from Fochow to Changchow.—Reuter.

UNCONFIRMED.

The report of the occupation of Amoy is, however, entirely without confirmation from other sources, although it is understood that the abandonment of Fochow is contemplated owing to its exposure to attack from the sea.

News from the Fukien border concerning the outcome of the last few days' hostilities is conflicting with both General Shum Kwong-hon of the Nineteenth Route Army and the Chiang Kai-shek armies claiming victories.

Messages from Nanchang state that Chiang Kai-shek's troops have captured Shun Chang Hsien on the Fukien-Chiang border and that the Nanking troops are marching towards Yenching.

FOCHOW CLAIMS.

From Fochow official quarters comes announcement of a general determination among members of the Revolutionary Government to stand against the Nanking attacks.

General Tai Ting-kai is personally directing the drive to Chienkiang of his troops, which are said to be making good progress, heading for Pucheng and Fuan.

The invitation, with a New Year message of goodwill, was conveyed by Sir Eric Drummond, the British Ambassador at Rome.—British Wireless.

GOLD SURRENDER ORDER

NEW STEP IN U.S. POLICY

ALL HOLDINGS TO BE GIVEN UP

Washington, Dec. 28.

All gold in the United States, no matter by whom held, has to be surrendered to the Treasury under a new Order issued to-day.

It was issued by the acting Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Morgenthau, and supplements the Order issued by President Roosevelt in August last, which partially lifted the gold embargo and required the owners of gold coin and bullion certificates to file a statement of their holdings within a fortnight.

A penalty of ten thousand dollars was provided for non-disclosure.

SURRENDER ORDERED.

The Morgenthau Order requires the surrender of all gold to the Treasury, except gold bullion held under Federal licence, rare coins, unmetallized scrap gold, or gold used for industrial purposes.

Heretofore, no individual or corporation except the Federal Reserve Banks or the Reconstruction Finance Corporation will be permitted to own gold exceeding the value of a hundred dollars.—Reuter.

HOME RAILWAYS BOOMING

CHRISTMAS TRAFFIC INCREASES

London, Dec. 28.

Traffic on British railways during the Christmas showed a further large increase.

Compared with the same week in 1932, the London, Midland and Scottish Railway receipts for passenger traffic rose by £42,000 and for goods by £44,000, while the London and North Eastern Railway showed corresponding gains of £27,000 and £28,000, the Southern Railway £20,000 and £3,000, and the Great Western Railway £13,000 and £18,000.

The improvement in the second half of 1933 has been constant and is expected to continue. Home railway stocks showed a firm tendency on the Stock Exchange to-day.—British Wireless.

VETERAN WAR CHIEF

VON KROBATIN'S DEATH

FAMOUS AUSTRIAN FIELD-MARSHAL

Vienna, Dec. 28.

Field-Marshal Alexander von Krobatin, veteran Austro-Hungarian military leader, who was War Minister in the Dual Monarchy for the greater part of the Great War, passed away to-day.

He served Austria actively in the military sphere for nearly fifty years without a break. He was commander of the Austria Tenth Army at the end of the war even though he was then 69 years of age.

Born at Olmutz in 1849, he passed through the Artillery Academy and joined the garrison artillery as a Lieutenant in 1869. Later he took the higher artillery course and in 1873 became a member of the Army Technical Committee. From 1874 to 1876 he studied at the Vienna Technical College, after which he was made lecturer on chemistry to artillery and engineer officers. He was given the "Von" in 1881.

IN WAR OFFICE.

His next important post was that of commandant of the Artillery Cadets' School at Vienna, to which he was appointed in 1890. He was made head of a department in the War Office in 1895 and was promoted major-general in 1900. Krobatin was recognised as a sound technical expert in munitions and did successful work when he became chief of a section in 1940.

Next year he was made "gold marshal lieutenant" while in 1910 he succeeded General Potiorek as Master of the Ordnance.

BOLD LEADER.

It was in December, 1912, that Field-Marshal Krobatin became War Minister of the Dual Monarchy in succession to Auffenberg, holding this onerous post throughout the greater part of the war. He supported the army in the field by bold and comprehensive measure.

When he resigned in April 1917, he was made a Freiherr and appointed to the command of the 10th Army, operating against Italy on the Carinthian and Tyrolean fronts. He retained this position until the collapse of the Empire.

Since then the veteran soldier, who was a bachelor, had lived with his sister at Vienna.—Reuter and Special.

TOKYO SURPRISE

NEW AMBASSADOR TO WASHINGTON

MR. HIROSHI SAITO APPOINTED

Tokyo, Dec. 27.

Mr. Hiroshi Saito, Japanese Ambassador at The Hague, has been appointed Ambassador in Washington.

Some surprise has been caused by this appointment, as Saito is not a member of the Japanese diplomatic service—the other being the London embassy. Mr. Saito has been passed over the heads of nearly a score of his seniors in the foreign service of the Mikado.

Just turned 47 this month, he is also the youngest man ever to hold the coveted Washington ambassadorship. Although both Baron Shigehara and Mr. Matsudaira were only a few months past 47.—(Continued on Page 7.)

ROTHSCHILD HEIR WEDS

CHINESE ADMIRAL'S DEATH

SUDDEN ATTACK OF PNEUMONIA

FORMER PREMIER

Shanghai, Dec. 29.

It is learned that Admiral Tu Hsi-kuei, the former Premier and ex-Minister of the Chinese Navy Department, died from a sudden attack of pneumonia on Wednesday afternoon at his Shanghai residence.

He was fifty-eight years of age. He is survived by his wife, three sons and five daughters, three of whom are married.

Admiral Tu Hsi-kuei arrived in Shanghai only a few weeks ago from Mamoi, the Fukienese port, where he was Superintendent of the Chinese Naval College. He left when the rebellion occurred, with the Fukien declaration of independence.

Admiral Tu was a native of Fochow, and entered upon a naval career in the days of the Monarchy. He proved, however, a keen Republican and was appointed commander-in-chief in 1921. He was promoted Admiral in 1924 and became Navy Minister and acting Premier in 1926.

He was appointed principal of the Mamoi Naval College in July, 1931, and had held the post ever since.—Reuter.

BIG HAUL FROM EMPRESS OF CANADA

Manila, Dec. 27.

Over 1,700 loads of opium were seized by customs officials shortly after the Empress of Canada arrived in port.

Mr. E. S. Cunningham, U.S. Consul-General in Shanghai, arrived here from Manila by the s.s. President Hoover, accompanied by his wife. They are on their way back to Shanghai after a holiday.

A CAMBRIDGE ROMANCE

DAUGHTER OF FAMOUS K.C.

London, Dec. 28.

Mr. Victor Rothschild, the twenty-three-year-old millionaire, heir to Lord Rothschild and the enormous Rothschild fortune, was married to-day to Barbara, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. St. John Hutchinson.

The bride, who met her husband as a student at Cambridge, was received into the Jewish faith two months ago.

The wedding was held at the family seat, Tring Park, Hertfordshire, owing to the desire of the nonagenarian widow of the first Baron Rothschild, who is the bridegroom's grandmother, to attend the ceremony.

Baron Rothschild is the bachelor uncle of the bridegroom. Mr. St. John Hutchinson, father of the bride, is the famous barrister, now Recorder of Hastings and her mother is almost equally well-known as an authoress.

Mr. Victor Rothschild is still a student at Cambridge University.—Reuter and Special.

BRITISH TRADE IN CHINA

POSSIBILITY OF INCREASE

MR. LOUIS BEALE ON OUTLOOK

London, Dec. 28.

The possibilities for increased trade between China and Great Britain and the need for greater contact between British manufacturing interests and Chinese business men are discussed in the report on trade and economic conditions in China 1931-33 by the British Commercial Counsellor at Shanghai, Mr. Louis Beale.

Mr. Beale emphasises that although the strength and wealth of China should rest on her agriculture, yet in 1932 twenty per cent of her total imports were of wheat and rice, ten per cent of sugar and other foodstuffs.

Meanwhile many of China's natural industries are declining and less of her many fine products are available or suitable for export.

At the same time, the report praises the sincerity of the Government in their plans for pacification and the reconstruction of the country.

FOUR-YEAR PLAN.

An example is given of the Four Year Industrial Plan for increasing production in staple goods, such as wheat, cotton, textiles and iron and steel.

The outstanding weakness of the financial position is the continued heavy default on railway obligations to foreign lenders and the rehabilitation of railway finances and operations is a prerequisite of progress.

CAPITAL GOODS.

Mr. Beale considers that the greatest market in China from now onwards will consist of capital goods, including machinery and equipment, the opportunities for which ought to be more than offset the probable loss to British trade in consumable goods.

The keynote of British participation in the development of China must be investments and co-operation with Chinese interests.

Both countries now realise that a share of control by the British interests concerned and the aid of British technicians is to the benefit of both.

The report adds that the formation of a group of British manufacturing interests to explore commercial possibilities in China is worthy of serious consideration.—British Wireless.

ANGLO-ESTHONIAN TRADE

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

YOUR CHILDREN.

What Putting on "Front" Means to Child

By Olive Roberts Barton

Our greatest course is paying too much attention to what people think. We make any sacrifice to the great god "front." Many of our homes are, if not actually whitened sepulchres, at least one colour on the outside and another inside. Think it over—Isn't almost the closest thing to our hearts the desire to create an impression with our neighbours?

Naturally, we have a certain pride, and we also cherish a strong feeling for privacy, both admirable and forgivable enough at most times. But when they begin to interfere with the truth, honesty, and direct living, then they are costing too much and cease to be virtues.

Lossing Child's Self-Respect

One of the many tolls they take is the self-respect of our children. And it is deplorable that many parents who won't condone a lie at any other time, demand that their families go out and tell fairy tales about home.

John Smith needs new tires on his car. He hasn't been able to use it for a month. "Remember, Jack," he warns his son, "if Mr. Jones says anything about the car, tell him I hurt my foot and can't drive it."

Children hate these lies. Yet we always think of them as allies, that they, too, are sensitive about money scarcity. As a matter of fact, they are not—unless we make them so.

Lean times have had one good result; they have made us a brotherhood in trouble. It is not as important to-day what Mr. and Mrs. Jones think as it was a few years ago. We are pretty sure that the Joneses, too, don't sleep any too well.

But the habit has been rather deeply set and in spite of the crumbling of false standards, we cannot seem to get away from its evils.

Truth Should Be Told

Mary goes out in Cousin Lou's winter coat. She doesn't mind wearing the coat so much as she minds parading around in false colours. Her mother tells her to say it was one she fixed up. By that time Mary hates the coat and everything about it more than ever. Whose pride are we trying to shield—theirs or ours? Why not say to Mary, "Just explain to the girls that Lou sent the coat if they ask you. A good many of them have coats like that. You'll all feel better if you tell the truth." And if Mary wants to continue

Some Useful "Don'ts"

When it comes to being beautiful, there are as many things you shouldn't do as there are those which you should.

It may sound a little confusing, but the really clever woman figures out all the rules of the beauty game and then does only the things which add to her beauty and charm, avoiding all the factors which might make her less attractive.

For example, knowing where not to put rouge is about as important as knowing just where it should go. If the shape of your face profits by the placement of rouge high on the cheekbones, don't make the mistake of putting it up there one time and down low the next. Don't put rouge on your ears. And don't put it on your chin unless some reliable authority has figured out that it will be flattering to you.

Discretion by Day.

Don't use too much eye make-up in the daytime. Say what you will, evening is really the time for it. Of course, if your brows and lashes are quite colourless, by all means use a little cosmetic dye on them.

Don't dress your hair in an elaborate, hard-to-keep-in-place coiffure when you go to the office. Save it for evening or dress-up occasions and stick to a simple hairdress for business hours.

Don't wear pink rouge with orange lipstick. The tones of our rouge and lipstick should match.

In other words, let your own good taste act as a check on your make-up ideas—the same as it does in your choice of clothes.

wearing her own clothes, what is the difference if she prefers them to Cousin Lou's handsomer ones? We lay too much stress on outside opinion—what people think about our possessions and incomes. We make children unhappy in a hundred ways by so doing.

CHAPTER XXX

Bannister stepped backward. There was no change in his expression except that his lips tightened. "So I'm not deceiving you," he said. "You mean you know—?"

The girl laughed. "I've known all along," she told him. "Remember that day we talked at the hotel? You told me your name was David Bannister. Somehow the name seemed familiar. I couldn't remember at first where I'd heard it. Then when I was in the department store that afternoon I wandered into the book department. There was a picture of you on a table with some of your books. Then of course I knew right away. What did you mean by telling me you were 'nobody of importance'?"

"Oh!" Bannister didn't say any more—just "oh!" After a moment he went on slowly, "When you said I wasn't deceiving you, what you meant was that you knew I wrote books?"

"Of course! And I've read your books, Mr. Bannister. Both of them. I think they're wonderful!"

"Hardly that."

"Oh, but they are! They seem—so real. The characters, I mean. Maggie and Philip and Sammie. Sammie especially—I think I like him best. You write so beautifully; even the ugly parts are beautiful!"

"Well," said Bannister, smiling, "I'm certainly glad to know I have such an enthusiastic reader."

"I should think all your readers would be enthusiastic."

"They're not," he told her. "Far from it! You should have seen what some of the critics said about 'Far Candle.' They panned it plenty."

"But," the girl defended, "they couldn't have understood it. Why, I thought—"

For several minutes they discussed the merits of Bannister's newest book. He could not help being impressed by her sound literary standards. It added immeasurably to the girl's praise to know that she had read widely, admired many of his favorites among the modern writers, criticized others whose work he considered negligible. She turned, resting one arm on the piano, and for the first time he noted the exquisite lines of the girl's throat. Creamy white, rounded. Her cheeks were creamy white, too. That, Bannister felt, should be remedied. A little colour would be an improvement. Studying the girl, he forgot that they were talking about literature.

Her question brought him promptly from his reverie. "What are you going to write about next?" she asked.

Bannister stirred uneasily. "Oh, I don't know," he said. "I haven't been thinking much about writing lately."

He couldn't tell her for the last two months writing had become a nightmare. He couldn't tell her that when he sat down at a desk a vision of Adele Allen came before him, driving away every thought of work. He couldn't tell her of the times he had given up, after hours of desperation, swearing never again to touch a typewriter. Write? Even the word was hateful to him.

"I'm knocking off," he explained. "For a while at least. That's why I came to Tremont."

He was spared further explanations as Kate Hewlett appeared in the doorway. "I heard some music in here," she said, "and it was lovely! You're going to play some more, aren't you, Miss France?"

"I'll be glad to," the girl told her. "What would you like to hear?"

"Oh, anything—just so it's music."

Juliet Franco turned again to the piano. She played a waltz with a gay Spanish rhythm and then something in slower tempo, hauntingly and sweet.

"That's lovely," Mrs. Hewlett said. "Just lovely! I don't know how long it's been since anyone's touched that piano. It does sound so good!"

Bannister agreed with her. But it wasn't fair to keep their guest at the piano all evening. He asked Juliet if she would care to play bridge.

"I'm sorry," the girl apologized, "but I'm awfully stupid at bridge. I always have been. If you don't mind I think I'd like to go to my room. That was such a huge meal I ate!" She turned to Mrs. Hewlett, smiling. "I'm afraid I'm sleepy."

"Then of course you'll go to your room, my dear," the older woman said. "I hope you get a good night's rest."

A few moments later Juliet left them. Kate Hewlett had taken up her basket of knitting from the table. For 20 minutes there was no sound except the clicking of the knitting needles. Then Mrs. Hewlett said, "David!"

He looked up from his magazine.

"Yes?"

"David, I think Miss France is awfully sweet. Where did you say you knew her? Was it in New York?"

"Yes," Bannister told her. "In New York." He returned to his magazine. A minute later he put it aside. "Aunt Kate," he said, "there's one thing I wanted to speak to you about. I want you to be careful not to say anything about this murder to Miss France. She's—well, the fact is there's been a loss in her family recently. A close relative. Very sad. That's why I don't think we should say anything to her about such a gruesome subject."

His aunt eyed him for an instant without speaking. Then she said, "Very well, David. I won't mention it."

"Thanks. Ho-hum! Believe I'll go upstairs and turn in. Little sleep might do me good."

"I agree with you," his aunt said tersely.

Bannister said good night and mounted the stairs. He entered his room but seemed in no hurry about going to bed. For a long time he sat, sunk far back in a comfortable old chair. He was looking at the picture of his grandfather on the opposite wall but he did not seem to be seeing it.

Then he went to the desk and rummaged through its drawers. They were in a disordered state and his method of searching for what he wanted was equally disordered. Old letters, pages of manuscript and clippings from newspapers fell to the floor. Bannister picked them up, jammed them back into the drawer and tried another. For several minutes the search proceeded unprofitably. Suddenly he drew forth an oblong bit of cardboard.

It was the photograph he had found on the floor of Tracy King's apartment, the wedding picture of 30 years ago. Bannister glanced at the bride in her ruffled wedding dress and the bridegroom with his impressive mustache. He turned the picture over and studied the back of the card minutely, but there was nothing to be found there.

Bannister gave it up. He placed the photograph on the desk before him, propping it against a pile of books. Then he sat back and looked at it.

After a while he reached for the picture and held it to the light. Bannister frowned. There were something familiar about that bridegroom. Why hadn't he noticed it before? It was something that just escaped remembrance. He had seen the man—or had he? Thirty years could make great changes. If the man in the photograph were dressed in modern clothes if the mustache were missing, how would he look?

Bannister tried to imagine the result but it was difficult. Who could say what the years—30 years—could do? The man looked much older than the woman in the

The customary inspection of the Parliamentary vaults was carried out by the Yeomen of the Guard before His Majesty entered.

A wedding of considerable interest took place in Shanghai when Miss Suzanne Challen became the bride of Mr. Archibald S. W. Wright, of the F. I. R. Press Bureau of the S. M. P. The bride and bridegroom, with one of the bridesmaids and the flower girl are shown photographed immediately after the ceremony.

An unusual ceremony was conducted last week at the Racecourse following the S. V. C. parade. Colonel Thoms, who will leave Shanghai soon, was presented with a book which, in the picture, he is seen holding.

ADVICE TO CHINA

LONDON FINANCIAL PAPERS' OPINION

London, Dec. 28. The Overseas Department report on China trade is made the subject of comment in the Financial Times and News. The latter observes that there are signs that China has turned the corner.

The debt arrears problem certainly remains the most serious which confronts China to-day, for her commercial progress depends upon the rehabilitation of her credit. China deserves every attention as one of the most promising fields for future foreign investment, the paper adds.

The Financial Times says that China's foremost need is security for capital and property, generally.

The lack of demand for China's export commodities cannot be regarded as the sole excuse for her long-standing default on various bond issues. Restoration of China's credit to its former high level is essential if investment is to help China's development in a manner which China herself is quite unable to encompass unaided, the paper comments.—Reuter.

Going on a balanced diet is a right step towards a slender figure.

CHARITY CONCERT.

IN AID OF MEDICAL WORK IN NEW TERRITORIES

A charity farewell performance in aid of the New Territories medical work will be given by Mr. Henry and his company at the Ko Shing Theatre this evening at 8.15. During his brief stay in the Colony and performances at the King's Theatre, Mr. Henry delighted and bewildered many big audiences with his show of wonders. With the introduction of new items in this charity show it is fully anticipated that the farewell performance will surpass the same artist's previous shows here. All the proceeds secured from this concert will go to the cause of free medical work in the New Territories, with medical stations which are managed efficiently under the St. John Ambulance New Territories Medical Benevolent Branch. But for this free distribution of medicine, villagers would have to travel a good distance to the town for services of doctors.

It will be recalled that at the beginning of this year an amalgamation was concluded between the St. John Ambulance New Territories medical work and the New Territories Medical Benevolent Society. As a result of this combination, the St. John Ambulance New Territories Medical Benevolent Branch was created.

This organisation has now two full-time western-trained Chinese doctors and fifteen certified nurses. Their annual budget is easily over $40,000. As the number of cases attended by the eleven medical stations, including a large number of maternity cases, is increasing daily there is constant expansion of the organisation's expenditure.

To-night's concert has been arranged to secure funds for the work.

Vast Work.

The organisation is under the management of St. John Ambulance members and well-known Chinese medical practitioners, with an Advisory Committee consisting of the Hon. Sir William Shenton as President and Mr. A. Morris and Dr. Arthur Woo as vice-presidents, while Mrs. R. Langley and Dr. F. I. Tsung are joint secretaries.

Some idea of the great amount of work accomplished by this organisation is given by the fact that for November alone the eleven stations attended 11,948 cases, 2,288 of these being at Cheung Chau. There were 140

MYSTERIOUS DEATH

MR. HENRY W. MOON'S BODY DISCOVERED

Shanghai, Dec. 28. The body of Mr. Henry W. Moon, well-known in Hongkong and Shanghai, was found yesterday afternoon in a ruined house in a Shanghai suburb, a bullet wound in the chest.

Mystery and dread is given the discovery by the fact that the weapon which fired the fatal shot is nowhere to be found.

The fatal shot was fired at close range, obviously, and death must have been almost instantaneous.

A note, allegedly left by Mr. Moon, states that he was not feeling well but contained no further intimation of intended suicide. The missing weapon is "puzzling police." The cartridge case and bullet were lying near the dead man.

The theory has been advanced that the revolver may have been taken by some prowler near the scene, but the clothing contained money and valuables which had not been touched.

As Mr. Moon was thought to have been seen last at 9.30 o'clock on the day of his death, and as a medical examination revealed that death had occurred around 11 o'clock, it is believed he reached the scene of death by motor car. Police are investigating all details of the affair and an inquest has been ordered for January 4.

Known in Hongkong.

Mr. Moon came first to Shanghai in 1909 and after having seen service in the World War he returned here. In 1926 he went to Hongkong, and there was Number Two in the Jardine subsidiary companies, Canton Insurance Company and the Hongkong Fire Insurance Company.

He returned to Shanghai in 1930 as head of Jardine's insurance department.

Mr. Moon was a most popular club member, a sportsman and a bachelor. Although he had suffered from ill health in recent years, his many friends here were stupefied at learning of his tragic death.—Reuter.

maternity cases attended of which 55 were in Cheung Chau. The two doctors attended 1,316 cases personally during the same month, while some of the minor cases were looked after by the nurses. Those who have bought advance tickets for to-night's concert are requested to book their seats beforehand at the Ko Shing Theatre.

picture. Must have been 30 then, at least. That would make him—well, somewhere around 60 now. Perhaps older.

But the familiarity persisted. Somewhere Bannister was sure he had seen that face. Where?

He himself had drifted over the continent, settled in a dozen different cities during the past six years. It might have been in Hollywood, Mexico City, Chicago—oh, there was no chance to figure it out that way!

He gave up the effort, and began to undress. But in five minutes he was back again, staring at the photograph. A little later he sat at his desk, busy with cardboard and wrapping paper. He placed the photograph inside the cardboard, wrapped it securely. Then he took pen and ink and wrote an address.

Afterward, because he was not in the least sleepy, he put on his coat, went down stairs and left the house. He walked two blocks until he reached a mail box, and dropped the package inside.

SILVER HOPES UNFULFILLED

Amidst all the confusion which has been created by President Roosevelt's silver plan, the only certainty which has emerged so far is that expectations held in some quarters of a likely rise in the world price of the commodity have not been realised. The opinion seems to be growing that, if rehabilitation of silver is one of the objects aimed at, the scheme does not go far enough. In this connection, it is worth noting that numerous authorities in America are disposed to minimise the importance of the plan. The Speaker of the House of Representatives, for instance, thinks there should be silver remonetization on a broader basis, arguing the necessity for a bimetallic base involving the rapid purchase of silver, against which silver certificates could be issued and made redeemable in gold. This, he thinks, would help to restore the 1926 prices more than anything else. An interesting point here is the contention that such a plan would make it unnecessary to maintain any ratio of silver to gold. Senator Wheeler, a keen silver advocate, is gratified that the Administration is treating silver as a favoured commodity, but he, likewise, wants something more than President Roosevelt has done, asking for unqualified silver remonetization, so that the country can issue currency against silver, as against gold. Senator Pittman also hopes that the President will go further. There is a possibility that this growing volume of dissatisfaction with the scheme as it stands may lead to further action, since the step taken by President Roosevelt does not close the door to a larger use of silver for coinage or bullion backing if he finds it desirable to extend the plan. London financiers already fear overproduction unless other action is taken. With prices still not materially affected by the Roosevelt plan, however, there is no real reason why there should be any rush to produce more. Yet, strangely enough, there is talk of renewed activity in the Canadian silver mines, whilst American silver States are excited over the possible profitable working of low-grade ores. Both these developments would appear to be based on the expectation of higher prices, an expectation which would appear to have no justification at the moment, especially in view of the fact that the United States produces only about one-sixth of the world total.

NOTES OF THE DAY

LAND SETTLEMENT

Mr. Lloyd George has recently revived his famous land settlement scheme, embodied in the phrase, two acres and a cow. But, as practical politics, what is the use of talking grandiloquently about establishing thousands of new small-holdings in England, as if it were only necessary to pass a Bill or two, and vote money, for the thing to be done? How different are the realities of the case, the history of every small-holding scheme since 1906 has shown. We have now in England a very large urban and artisan population, a great part of which is accustomed to earn as much or more money, to work far shorter hours, and to shoulder far less risks and responsibilities for itself than any self-employed small-holder can or must.

FACTS AND THEORIES

No-one will easily get these people to take on the twelve-hour day the seven-day week, the habits of frugality and forethought, the deprivation of gregarious joys, which a smallholder must face to succeed. Nor will many of their wives care for migrating to conditions where water has to be pumped, and neither gas nor electricity is laid on, and the nearest picture-palace is several miles away. For economic and defensive reasons it might be considered desirable that the British Isles should once more raise a much larger proportion of its food from its own soil. That is a sound basis for policy. But it would be futile to pretend that the English people are tumbling over each other in the desire to raise it, or that we can pick and choose the manner in which it shall be raised.

MARKETING COMES FIRST

The prime need is that which the present Government has been the first to tackle seriously—the organisation of marketing. Make it possible for home farm produce to reach the vast British consuming public not as heretofore, on terms less favourable than its overseas rivals, but on terms rather more favourable, and production must to some extent find its own channels. Different types of farming will prevail in different districts. Small-holders will be in the picture; but they will not be all over it; and may even not be very prominent. There is certainly no case for the taxpayer to spend untold millions in order artificially to make them so.

COTTON FROM INDIA

India grows an enormous quantity of raw cotton, but Lancashire has always disliked using it, because most of it is very low-grade. Seeing that the Egyptian native growers, whose cultural level cannot have been very different from the Indian, have been taught to grow the finest raw cotton in the world, it seems surprising that so little has been done to bring Lancashire and India together on this side in the seventy years since the cotton famine during the American Civil War. An official enquiry, the produce of the Ottawa conference, has now reported not unhelpfully on the possibilities. We should be in a much stronger position to claim India's preference for our cloth, if we went more to her for the raw material; and we should advantageously lessen our dependence on the United States. Lancashire is beginning to see the obvious truth and if tests now being carried out prove successful, important developments may be expected in the next two or three years, including perhaps the rather strange position that Japan should be conceded a moral right to a large share of India's trade.

NO TIP FOR WAITER?

When Mr. Grover Whalen of New York City, suggested the abolition of tips for waiters as the best way of agreeing on wage scales under the restaurant code, he touched on a reform which has been mooted at many times and in many places and is generally regarded as likely to appeal to both wage-earner and the public. Most waiters, it is argued, would prefer to work for a regular and adequate wage rather than depend on the generosity of the people they serve. Most diners, undoubtedly, would be glad to get away from the need of pouring out a steady stream of ten cent pieces. It seldom works out in that fashion however. The commonest procedure is a No Tipping order ignored by patrons who are well aware that tips are expected just the same.

THE IDEAL OF LIVING

By HUGH REDWOOD

"WE to-day," says Mr. Julian Huxley, "fall short of the ideal living, and fall short just as radically—relatively to our circumstances and the state of our civilisation—as did the early Jews relatively to theirs."

The truth of the statement is only too painfully evident. A week-end in the Rhonda and another week-end on Clydeside, with an interposed spell in the North of England, have left me with no sort of doubt on that score.

They have brought me, however, moving proof that great numbers of the very people by whom the heaviest burdens of distress are being borne not only hold fast to the ideal, but are firm in their faith that, through all its troubles, mankind is moving towards it.

PROMISE OF PROGRESS.

Now these, in the main, are people who believe the Bible to be a unique revelation of the law and the purpose of God.

It is strange, then, that Mr. Huxley should seem to regard them, as loth to accept the idea of religious progress. They cannot help accepting it. They cling to it as their great hope.

The New Testament is a promise of progress, from the ideal of the Kingdom of God, received in men's hearts with the trust of children, to the realised state of perfection, when "that which is in part shall be done away" and man shall know his Creator as he is known by Him.

FORERUNNERS.

The Old Testament is a background against which these assurances shine with the greater glory.

Its historical portions show us how surely the way was prepared for Christ's coming: its prophetic chapters link up with the Christian Gospel, as applied to present-day problems.

Take a glance at some of the ancient prophecies, which so startlingly fit our times, and you will see reasons why men find the Bible a God-given spring when human resource has run dry.

At that resounding chapter of Haggai, for instance, which seems to have been written to the address of our economists. ("The silver is mine and the gold is mine, saith the Lord of hosts.") There, coupled with the warning of a world upheaval, is the promise that "the desire of all nations shall come."

At Joel, too, Isaiah foresaw a time when the nations should beat their swords into ploughshares; but Joel saw rearmament, when they should beat them back into swords again and there should be "multitudes, multitudes in the valley of decision." Yet he also saw, in the midst of it all, his God triumphant in new Jerusalem.

THE PERFECT REIGN OF LAW.

Progress is the essence of Bible teaching. Even the classic exponents of faith, we are told, have not achieved perfection. There is "Some better thing" ahead.

What is "the ideal of living," for which men pray and strive and endure?

We may, perhaps, define it as a new system in which a perfect law is perfectly obeyed; obeyed with the same exactitude as so-called "natural" laws, which govern alike the mightiest suns and the least of the atoms.

In such a system, existing evils can look for no footing. The clean slate for which the world craves will be a fact, and it will be clean in every respect, physical, moral and spiritual, which means that disease and death will be conquered and that the blight which has fallen upon us will be removed.

We can express the same thoughts in other and more familiar words:

Thy Kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, as it is in Heaven.

And I saw a new heaven and a new earth. And there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain. . . . And there shall be no more curse.

Mr. Julian Huxley, one gathers, would agree that this is "magnificent literature." But it is not because it is literature that men, with God's help, are shaping the course of their lives by it.

They believe that the recorded language of Jesus Christ points to a Plan and to its final fulfilment, of which the words of the seer of Patmos are an inspired foreshadowing. And the more they study the Book which contains these things, the more certain it is that they will go on placing it "in an entirely different category from any other book."

This may be, to the Greeks, foolishness, and to the professional mind "simply superstition," but elsewhere in the same Book it is shrewdly observed that God has made wisdom look rather silly.

Certainly the world would be ill-served to-day by a "wisdom" which swept away, as fetish-worship, a belief that is helping to keep it out of the abyss.

THE WAY WITH CHILDREN.

Mr. Huxley would have us look on the Bible much as we look on the history of England. We may use it to illustrate the fact of past progress and to point the way of progress in the future. Indeed, to these ends, he is pleased to approve it as "an admirable instrument." (A gratified flutter in Heaven would seem to be indicated.) But if it is to become "a fetish in the realm of ideas" (shall we say, like certain doctrines worshipped by scientists?), it is not fit, he says, for children to read.

I shall put it the other way. If the Bible is taught to our children by qualified spiritual teachers, they will be liberated from fetish-worship of all kinds.

They will not learn that the Bible is "the only avenue to their religious salvation"—to Christians, Christ is the only Way—but that, in God's careful ordering, it was given to them as a guide book, as a lamp to their feet and a light to their path.

They will know the truth that sets men free, and find the way of re-birth for the world as they work out their own salvation.

The Very Idea!

CHRISTMAS CARDS

By Eddie Raphael Tuck Kelly

CHRISTMAS and New Year cards should be abolished.

They are a menace.

Displayed on your mantel-piece for visitors to see, they are a guide to your position in Hongkong society. If you have only a couple from the ten cent box you are not of much account, but a row of privately printed cards gives you a cachet equal to that of being a Compradore.

For a long time we have been at a disadvantage in this respect. The envelopes we get at Christmas bearing three cent stamps do not contain best wishes. They are stuffed with offensive looking pieces of papers, with nasty figures printed on them. And when our friends show us theirs, arranged in rows in front of the clock, our blood boils until it makes our chilblains worse than ever.

However, we showed them something this Christmas. We have cards strewn around like the leaves on the Babes in the Wood. They are stuck into picture frames, they are on the mantel-piece and on the window-ledge. There are cards everywhere.

All of them are expensive, some costing as much as $1. Nor do they come from any Tom, Dick or Harry. There is one from His Excellency the Governor, and another from the Colonial Secretary.

No, we didn't send them to ourselves. It happened that last January we wanted a scrap book to stick our clippings in, and our local stationer had not got one. As this was the only place at the moment where our credit was good, he was anxious to please us, so he produced two large volumes, which he said we could have if we liked.

They happened to be the volumes full of sample Christmas cards from which you select the design you want for your own private use. We asked him if he wanted the cards back when we tore them from our book, and he said, no, we could give them to the cat to play with.

We admit that they bear the date "Christmas, 1932," but we don't suppose our friends are so ill-bred as to notice that.

1934 BIRTHDAY GUIDE

JANUARY.—Persons born this month will succeed as they get on. Journeys not yet taken lie before them, and they will always be remembered by those who bear them in mind.

FEBRUARY AND MARCH.—Considerable change is indicated. This should be carefully counted as mistakes cannot afterwards be rectified.

APRIL, MAY AND JUNE.—Hasty decisions should be arrived at quickly, but it would be prudent not to anticipate unexpected news.

JULY, AUGUST AND SEPTEMBER.—Persons born during this period start life at an early age. In love affairs care should be exercised wherever a need for caution exists.

OCTOBER, NOVEMBER AND DECEMBER.—Avoid conversations with strangers you do not know, and beware of answering unasked questions. Remember, every opportunity is a chance, and the sudden acquisition of wealth is apt to add to one's possessions.

Revised Version

A famous Hollywood actress was looking at a photograph and, referring to the person whose portrait it was, she said, "Sisters and Brothers have I none, but this man's father is my father's fourth wife's seventh husband's twice-divorced brother-in-law's third wife. Who was the person in the photograph?"

when appointed to Washington in 1918 and 1924, respectively.

AMERICAN EXPERIENCE.

Probably because of five years' service as Japanese consul-general in New York, from 1923 to 1928, Mr. Saito speaks English with hardly any accent and with an American, rather than a British, vocabulary.

It was his fluency in English, enabling him to meet American and British newspapermen and other banters or discuss serious international topics with them in their own language, that helped to make him one of the most successful press liaison officials the Japanese Foreign Office has ever had during his term as chief of the information bureau in Tokyo during 1929 and 1930.

NAVAL CONFERENCE.

Mr. Saito began his diplomatic career in 1910, shortly after his graduation from the law college of the Tokyo Imperial University, training school for most of the empire's diplomats, but it was 20 years later that he gained world prominence, as well as a big reputation among his own people, by the role he played in the London naval conference of 1930.

There his abilities as a linguist, his mastery of the subject matter of the conference and a winning personality made him one of the most valuable negotiators in the Japanese delegation, although he was not one of the plenipotentiaries. He was, however, the right hand of the chief delegate, Baron Wakatsuki, and proved especially useful in the difficult hotel-room negotiations.

SPELL AT THE HAGUE.

He obtained his first ministerial appointment early this year when appointed to the Hague.

Shortly after going to the capital of the Netherlands he negotiated a new treaty of arbitration, the first such instrument concluded by Japan with any other power following her resignation from the League of Nations.

This treaty, providing for submission of nearly all disputes to arbitration, is considered by Tokyo to be the model, on which it hopes to pattern several other such compacts with the West, in an effort to convince the Occident that Japan still wants to keep the peace, in spite of her bellicose attitude of recent years and her withdrawal from the League.

R. ABBIT'S CRICKET NOTES

worse and Cragg and Dewey took full advantage of them hitting very stoutly but the bowlers were terribly handicapped while the fieldsmen could hardly see the ball. At two hundred and seventeen a brilliant one handed catch at mid-off sent back Cragg for a hard hit thirty. Several runs were added and then the Army decided at 220 for nine wickets. They seemed safe as it was after half past four, and it had been arranged to stop at five-fifteen.

A DESPERATE FINISH.

With eighty-nine to get in forty minutes the Navy sent in Holland-Martin and Larkin. Conditions were absurd. From the pavilion one could hardly see the ball at all and the Army bowlers could neither stand nor hold the ball while they and the batsman alone knew where the ball went. Holland-Martin was l.b.w. to Garthwaite. Then all one could see was that two long white figures beat desperately with their bats and then rushed up and down the slip-marks—I mean wicket. It was splendid hitting but frankly rather farcical the very sporting. They got the runs with a few minutes to spare. Just before the end Carver was stumped for thirty. Larkin must have made about forty but I did not manage to see the score book. By the way something should be done about the scoring. A side should provide a scorer who knows his own team by sight and can score.

REVIEW.

Space forbids a long review. The Navy thoroughly deserved their win. They were a much better balanced batting side and I confess I had no idea they were so good. It remains to be seen how they will shape against the Club. I gather Suther comes in for Holland-Martin and that Carver is not picked. After all he only got ninety two runs in the two innings! As a matter of fact, I presume someone will stand down for him. Stevenson will come in as skipper, I take it, unless he is too busy singing that old song, "I want to be an Eagle, Mummy, and with the Eagles fly." But in passing, I thought Sutherland handled his team very well indeed.

COMING GAMES.

Against the Navy the Club have two changes, G. R. Sayer and T. L. Redmond coming in for Hayward and Divett. I sincerely hope the weather will be better than it has been. I have no information about the K.C.C. and Army game—so sides I mean. University play C.S.C.C. if the latter can raise a side—and I suppose the I.R.C. match which they have in their card against K.C.C. is off. Crater-gower are not playing unless they take on K.C.C.

AMBULANCE WORK

SPECIAL MESSAGE TO COLONY

A special message from London Headquarters to the Hongkong St. John Ambulance Brigade was delivered by Sir Richard Needham who was entertained at the China Emporium yesterday by a tea party. Sir Richard, accompanied by Lady Needham, is on his way to India and is leaving the Colony to-morrow.

Mr. Alfred Morris, the local Commissioner, presided and in introducing Sir Richard said that he was on a special mission to Hongkong. Coming here from London as he does, he was charged with a special message to members of the local Brigade. Sir Richard knew the organization thoroughly, having himself been Commissioner in one of the districts in India.

Sir Richard was loudly applauded on rising to speak. "I have not come here to make a speech," began Sir Richard. "I wish to express the great pleasure I have in being able to accept the kind invitation of Mr. Morris and Mrs. Langley and the Officers of the Association, to be entertained hospitably at tea and for the opportunity of meeting and seeing you all. I have had the privilege also of seeing something of the work you did in the New Territories."

Continuing Sir Richard said that he had spent a day in the New Territories under the escort of Dr. A. R. Wellington who had very kindly shown him the dispensaries and the welfare centres and had indicated also the vast extent of the numerous activities in which the Brigade was involved throughout the Colony.

An Important Remark.

"I was most interested," proceeded Sir Richard, "with the orderliness and cleanliness and the general organization of all you have undertaken. Now that is a very important remark in this sense:—That by orderliness, by cleanliness and by organization you carry with you not only a message of thanks from your brothers and sisters who are members of the Brigade, but to all with whom each and all of you come into contact."

"The extent, therefore, of your most beneficent activities is very great indeed and I congratulate the Commissioner and the officers and members of the Brigade, in that such a tribute should be paid to you so sincerely. All of your activities cost money and I think a word, not a necessary or a tribute of thanks, is necessary to all the philanthropists for their generosity in supporting this movement. (Applause.)"

"They are translating their wealth and their goods into generous directions which are the source of extremely beneficent activities. It is a far better way for some of the money to be spent than many ways that we all know of."

"Now, Mr. Commissioner if I may I will read to you all the message I have the pleasure of imparting from the Headquarters of St. John Ambulance Brigade in London."

The Special Message.

Sir Richard then read the message which was as follows: "We have in Hongkong a very flourishing organization which is active in a variety of directions, some of which are unusual and have been outside the scope of Ambulance work proper but it is all carried out with efficient recognition and encouragement (applause). There is in Hongkong in the person of Mr. Alfred Morris, an officer of the Order and a very devoted assistant in Mr. Langley and the officers who have carried on and organized this flourishing organization."

"We should like you to tell Mr. Morris, his officers and members of the Brigade how greatly we appreciate their tremendous enthusiasm and activity and the many accomplishments which brought the work to such a high state of efficiency and such a flourishing position in Hongkong."

Concluding Sir Richard said that this was a message which he thought should be a great encouragement to them all. He hoped it would be. The work they were undertaking, beginning as it was, was only its beginning. There was ample scope for several Mr. Morris. He hoped he saw among the members of the Brigade present, many budding Mr. Morris."

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

MENTAL STAINS CANNOT BE REMOVED BY TIME, NOR WASHED AWAY BY ANY WATERS.—Cicero.

The Bishop of Hongkong will not hold the usual discussion class to-morrow, nor on the following Friday, January 5.

One case of small-pox, five cases of diphtheria with two deaths (one imported), two cases of typhoid (one imported), one death from meningitis, and 41 deaths from tuberculosis were reported to the health authorities last week. On Wednesday one case of typhoid was also reported.

Madam Lottie Gordon has arranged a fine programme for Tuesday next at the Allie Music Room, at 5.30 p.m. Madam Gordon will play a Bachmann-Chopin piano group in addition to repeating (by request) her Australian compositions and monologues for the Army and the Navy (also written by her). Songs will be rendered by Mrs. Wilcox and other singers, also French recitation by Madame Dubouche. The proceeds will be in aid of local charity funds, and the free musical education of young artists.

GUESTS OF NAVY.

HONGKONG CHILDREN AT OFFICERS' PARTY

Pirates landed in Hongkong at 8 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and carried off 100 children.

But the pirates were not from Bias Bay nor were the children taken for ransom. It was the occasion of the annual children's party on board H.M.S. Medway and the "pirates" were really naval officers who hit upon this novel idea for the entertainment of the kiddies.

All was excitement at Queen's Pier shortly before 8 o'clock a lifeboat, garishly decorated, and flying the "skull and cross-bones" came in sight.

The cries of the children, as the boat tied up, did not come from any sense of terror. Hastily they scrambled in and were transported to the naval anchorage, where the giant submarine mother ship was moored.

On arrival they were met by the rest of the pirate gang, who deprived them of their outward garments. They were then taken in to the Pirates Den, to be supplied with chocolates and other delicacies to gladden the hearts of any child.

Once on board, they soon lost their shyness, and readily took to the various entertainments supplied for them. The Shute, Miniature Aeroplane, and the submarine kept them out of mischief till the "Star turn" of the Oswald decided to entertain them with a ventriloquist turn.

At about 4.15 the children were eyeing the huge assortment of sandwiches and cakes on the tables in the dining room. After tea, the entire party ascended to the Officers' lounge, where a magnificent Christmas tree had been planted, loaded with toys, chocolates and everything else a tree should be loaded with.

Father Christmas, amid shrieks of delight, descended from one of the hatch covers, in a cloud of snow. The presents for the children came tumbling down after him.

The children were escorted home in the lifeboat soon afterwards, thoroughly happy.

RECORD IN SERVICE.

SENIOR METROPOLITAN MAGISTRATE RESIGNS

London, Dec. 28. The Senior Metropolitan Police Magistrate, Mr. Frederick Mead, who is 86 years old, has resigned from the office which he has held since 1889.—British Wireless.

COMPANY MEETING

SANDAKAN LIGHT AND POWER CO. (1922), LTD.

A small deficit on the year's working was revealed at the seventh ordinary yearly meeting of shareholders in the Sandakan Light and Power Company (1922), Limited, held at the head office of the Company in National Bank Building, Des Voeux Road Central, yesterday at 3 p.m. There were present Mr. A. L. Shields (Chairman), Mr. J. P. Braga and Mr. S. M. Churn (Directors), Mr. D. W. Munton (Consulting Engineer), Mr. Noel Braga (Secretary), and Messrs. J. Topplin, H. Braga, A. M. Braga, Tso Tsan-tai, F. J. Tavaras, and I. W. Shewan (shareholders).

The Secretary having read the notice convening the meeting, the Chairman, addressing the meeting, said: "Gentlemen,—The accounts having been in your hands for the prescribed period, I will take them to read. The balance at Credit of Working Account, after allowing $25,514.00 for depreciation and also General Managers' Commission, amounts to $7,342.52, as against $81,222.72 for the previous year. The Profit and Loss Account, you will observe, shows a debit balance of $937.40, as compared with a credit balance of $20,771.39 last year. Revenue has dropped by Straits $3,134.00 during the year, and as the average exchange rate has been higher the figures in Hongkong dollars have been adversely affected."

Fuel Change Contemplated. The number of units sold for lighting is down by 10%, and although power units are up by 1.3%, combined revenue is lower by 7%. So far there is no sign of improvement in trade in Sandakan. The available supplies of sawdust and firewood for fuel are decreasing, and we are now considering the generating cost, but also attention is being given to the efficiency of the plant in order to keep the fuel bill as low as possible. It may be found economical to run the light load period with an oil engine, but we are faced with higher generating costs in the near future.

Our Manager and Resident Engineer reports that the plant, buildings and distribution system are in a good state of repair and efficiency. I must refrain from prophesying about the immediate future of the Company, but I venture to hope that business cannot get any worse. Exchange and fuel costs are factors which may affect our current year's results, and I hope the Government and community of Sandakan will give us their fullest possible support in our endeavours to supply light and power at fair rates, considering the limited field of our disposal.

I now propose the adoption of the report and accounts as presented, and when that has been seconded I will endeavour to answer any questions from shareholders. Mr. J. P. Braga seconded the adoption of the Report and Accounts, and the motion was carried unanimously.

Mr. J. P. Braga and Mr. C. A. da Rosa were re-elected Directors on the motion of Mr. Tso Tsan-tai, seconded by Mr. J. Tavaras.

Messrs. Lowe, Bingham and Matthews, and Messrs. Percy Smith, Seth and Fleming, were reappointed Auditors to the Company at a remuneration of $350 each, on the motion of Mr. H. Braga, seconded by Mr. J. Topplin.

This concluded the business of the meeting.

The rate of the dollar on demand was 2s. 0 1/2d.

Captain McGinty, formerly of the Douglas Co., died at the Government Civil Hospital.

In an effort to break the boycott, caused by the Tramway Co. insisting on payment of fares in Hongkong coinage, free rides were given.

The name of Mr. J. Caer Clark was added to the list of authorised architects.

Mr. John Lambert was installed Master of Zetland Lodge of Freemasons.

CLAIM DENIED.

JUDGE COMMENTS ON DEFENDANTS' EVIDENCE

"This is a bad case and defendant has in fact committed perjury," said the Pulano Judge, Mr. R. E. Lindell, yesterday, when he made an order for immediate execution of a judgment in favour of Koh Yik-chen, of 15, Nam Kwai-long Street, who claimed the sum of $500, now an acknowledged debt dated March 1, 1933, signed by Slow Man-choy, alias S. Kenny, defendant. Mr. P. H. Sinn appeared for the plaintiff while Mr. H. G. Lowe represented the defendant.

Defendant in his evidence declared that he did not borrow a sum of $500 from the plaintiff on March 1 and that the signature on the acknowledgment was not his. Witness denied having signed any receipt but finally admitted that the signature on the receipt was his.

His Honour gave judgment for the plaintiff, with costs, and made an order for immediate execution.

ly at the finish, I liked her very much.
Mr. Lewis' Captain Cook went very nicely when he covered three quarters of a mile in 30-1/4, 1-30 3/5, a very level gallop, and Mrs. Lewis' St. Joan also impressed me very much when she negotiated a similar distance in 33-1/4—1-32.

AN OUTSTANDING GALLOP.

Mr. Dynast's "Friday" showed up well in a mile and a quarter gallop in 2-37, last three quarters in 1-29—last half in 58, last quarter in 29, a very fine performance for a first gallop. Mrs. Stanton's Dinty put up an impressive mile in 1-58, last three quarters in 1-29 3/5, last half in 1-00 1/5—last quarter in 29 1/5, but the first part of the gallop was the more impressive, first three quarters in 1-28 4/5, first half in 57 4/5, first quarter in 28 2/5. I wonder whether this denotes "short distance" or whether—being somewhat of a puller—the Boy was unable to hold him?

But undoubtedly the outstanding gallop was that of General Lam's Atlas last Saturday. In company with—I think—Australian Boy they cantered one and a half miles slowly, but from the five furlong post they came with a good gallop, the last half mile being done in 25-27 (total time 52 seconds) and Atlas was held back to Australian Boy. Had he been allowed to stride along by himself I feel he could easily have done under 60 seconds. He is a fine, big, impressive animal with plenty of substance, and a grand mover.

LAKE MONSTER.

LEARNED OPINION FORTHCOMING

London, Dec. 28. The Loch Ness monster, which has appeared on many occasions recently and has startled lake travellers of unquestionable repute, is now acquiring an international reputation.

Professor Gravel of the Paris Museum identifies it with Megalophis-megapneustes, specimens of which, 75 feet long, were three times sighted by the French gunboat Avalanche, off Indo-China, in 1898.

But the German Professor Boelsche considers the monster is probably a Mosasaurus, a species of marine lizard hitherto believed extinct.

Several districts in Italy are now claiming monsters of their own and one such was shot in Sicily recently, but proved to be an abnormally large but perfectly harmless snake. Meanwhile the original Loch Ness monster continues to make intermittent appearances thoughtfully varying its size according to observers' credibility.—Reuter.

IS PUBLIC PREFERENCE

"When car-owners have a preference they stand up and proclaim it. When they find what they want they rise in a body and go get it."

There's no mistaking the genuineness of the general enthusiasm for the handsome big CHEVROLET SIX.

A leader in sales in four of the last six years still heading the list this year, never before has such emphatic public acceptance been registered for any single model of any make of car.

You will be proud to own such a popular car and it is not beyond the means of anyone who can afford to buy a car to buy a CHEVROLET.

ENGLISH FLAT RACING SEASON REVIEWED

SOME INTERESTING NOTES ABOUT LEADING OWNERS, HORSES, TRAINERS & JOCKEYS

Below will be found an absorbing review of the English Flat Racing season which recently concluded. It appeared in a recent issue of the Sunday Sportman, and contains several matters of interest to race-goers.

Once again the "Come Fire" at Manchester has sounded the knell of yet another racing season, but it has to be confessed that it was a cheerful sort of knell, for the sinking sun gave every prospect of a radiant dawn.

Though wide as the poles asunder, it is indisputable that commerce and racing reflect one another. If things are going badly in the world of business then we must expect that racing and breeding will be more or less in the doldrums, but when the sun of prosperity shines on commercial and industrial undertakings then racing and its ancillary undertakings flourish and expand in the reflected warmth.

Even the most hardened pessimist can admit that racing and breeding have looked up very considerably in the past few months, thanks to the fact that British credit now stands as high as ever it did and British trade is advancing with auspicious step along the road to prosperity.

There is now actually talk of a reduction of 1s. in the Income Tax, and should this talk be translated into action then we may confidently anticipate that racing and breeding will share in the "boom" which must inevitably follow this much-wished-for concession.

But even if these hopes of a cut are not realised, or if they are only partially realised, we venture to assert that racing has definitely "turned the corner" and that the season of 1934 will show an even greater recovery than that of 1933 than did that of 1933 on 1932.

A PREDICTION VERIFIED.

Twelve months ago Lord Derby was, for once in a way, well down on the list of winning owners, for he totalled rather less than £10,000, which, while a substantial sum in itself, would by no means pay the expenses of his long string of horses at Stanley House. Of the £2,750 won by the winners of the black jacket and white cap, rather more than half stood to the credit of the two-year-old, Hyperion.

We may, perhaps be excused if we quote at this point what we wrote a year ago in our review of the season of 1932—

"The Honble. George Lambton is, as usual, well up in the list of winners. He has at this moment sheltered the winner of next year's Derby, Reference is made, of course, to Hyperion, a strong-built, colt by Gainborough, out of that grand mare, Selene. He made his debut in the Derby Stakes, and on that running has strong claims to be regarded as the crack two-year-old of the year, far better than the Aga Khan's colt, for he has had Manilla in the Middle Park Stakes. It was as plain as a pikestaff that Hyperion had come on a long, and being so readily beaten by Manilla, and Taveris in the Boscawen Stakes."

How Hyperion improved and how, though not a big gun, he made hacks of his field in the Derby and St. Leger is now history. It is as certain as anything can be that had he been entered for the two-year-old, he would not have gone to France, and Hyperion would have joined the select band who wear the triple crown. Thanks almost wholly to Hyperion, Lord Derby this year once again heads the list of winning owners, though to be sure his total for 1933 is below that of the year when he was crowned as the prizewinner, has, indeed, been much more evenly distributed than in some past years, and this, in our opinion, is a matter for congratulation.

A MIGHTY DIFFERENCE!

In 1932, for instance, the Aga Khan simply swamped the opposition, winning £57,777, as against the £17,407 credited to the Earl of Rosebery, who was second on the winning list. This year his highness is only third, with nearly £40,000 less to his credit, which is indeed quite a startling change. When the season closed down last autumn high hopes were entertained that the two-year-olds, Felicitat and Gino, would prove equal to taking classic honours, but these hopes were not realised. As a matter of fact neither of them won a race at all, and the nearest either of them got to classic honours was Felicitat's second in the St. Leger. Of the older horses, Dastur won the Coronation Cup, and halved the Champion Stakes, and Firdausi won the 84th Triennial at Newmarket after losing the John Porter Stakes at Newbury in the objection room, but on the whole the seniors were disappointing.

PROMISING YOUNGSTERS.

The Aga Khan has, however, high hopes that at least two of his first-season performers will make up into high-class three-year-olds. Reference is made, of course, to Umidwar and Mrs. Ruston's A backland youngster, Umidwar was given plenty of time to develop, and indeed he made but one appearance during the season. This was in the Hurst Stakes at Hurst Park in the first week of the present month. Odds were laid on Satyr, but Lord Carnarvon's colt does not get six furlongs, and eventually the Aga Khan's novice won by a neck from Farmer Giles, with Bidou a length and a-half away third, and Satyr fourth. The Manchester running of Farmer Giles does not enhance this form. It is true, but we believe Umidwar to be a colt who will make more than ordinary improvement between the ages of two and three.

Unlike Umidwar, Mrs. Ruston had a fairly busy season, winning three races out of five and finishing second in the other two. She showed excellent stamina in the Dewhurst Stakes, and if all goes well with her it is likely to tickle up the best of the fillies in next year's One Thousand and Oaks.

COLOMBO'S OWNER.

Dividing Lord Derby and the Aga Khan in the list of winning owners comes Lord Glanely, whose position in the list is, like that of Lord Derby, mainly due to one horse. His lordship's champion is, of course, Colombo, who was almost as much in front of the two-year-olds as was Hyperion in front of the three-year-olds. The son of Manna ran seven times without tasting defeat; indeed, he won all his races with ease save the first and last. His first race resulted in a tight fist with Campanula, who had had experience, whereas the colt was green, while in his last race, which was at Kempton, Colombo was giving Valerius, who ran him to a head, a matter of 17lb. Colombo will be ridden next year by the Australian jockey, "Togo" Johnstone, who headed the list of winning jockeys in France this season, and who has accepted a retainer from Lord Glanely.

LORD ASTOR'S DISAPPOINTMENTS.

Lord Astor comes fourth in the list of winning owners. He has not done badly in view of the fact that his horses won more than £17,000, but that he would have done a very great deal better had not Canon Law and Mannedead met with bad luck cannot be denied. An easy winner of his only race as a two-year-old Canon Law was a source of great trouble to Lawson from that time onwards. He could not get ready for the Two Thousand or the Derby, and though he roused the highest hopes for the future when easily beating Scarlet Tiger for the St. James's Palace Stakes at Ascot, he went wrong once more after running fourth for the Epsom Stakes, and was subsequently taken out of all engagements. Mannedead, too, was a source of constant anxiety to kephal Joe, and his dead-heat with Loaningdale for the Rous Memorial Stakes at Ascot settled him. Prior to his breakdown Mannedead carried out his duties in the Chippingham and Burywell Stakes at Newmarket like the very good horse he undoubtedly was, and he has the distinction of retiring to the stud unbroken.

THE BREEDER OF COLOMBO.

Sir Alec Black, whose fitful incursions into the world of racing and breeding have not lacked sensation, heads the list of winning breeders with a substantial margin over the Earl of Derby, who is prize-money second. Among other good animals bred by Sir Alec who have been performing this season is the crack two-year-old, Colombo, whom Lord Glanely purchased for a comparative trifle. As has been almost invariably the case in recent years, "in France" heads a high place in the list of winning breeders. Last year he was second with £35,000 to his credit, while this year he is third with some £12,000 less. The principal contributor to this total is, of course, Rodosto, who won the Two Thousand for the Princess de Faucigny-Lucinge, who is the only lady to figure high in the list of winning owners. Last year that distinction belonged to Mrs. Arthur James, a patron of Stanley House, and one of the most successful lady owners of recent years.

In view of his comparative ill-success as an owner during the season of 1933 the Aga Khan has not unfortunately sustained a defeat in the breeder's list. It is, indeed, a decline of some magnitude, for horses bred by him have won but some £17,000, as against a grand total of £58,000 twelve months ago. Lord Astor shows a substantial, and Lord Woolvington a slight improvement on last year's figures. Minnie having disappeared from the turf, Lord Boverbrook disappears from among the leading breeders, but Mr. J. A. Dewar makes his appearance with rather more than £10,000 to his credit.

FRED DARLING BEATS FRANK BUTTERS.

The race for supremacy between the trainers has been much closer this year than in 1932, when Frank Butters led his nearest opponent by more than £20,000, or in the year before that when Joe Lawson set up an English record by training the winners of £93,800, with Fred Darling, who was runner-up, totalling nearly £25,000 in the rear.

It was old Alec Taylor who, in reply to a compliment paid to him by the Duchess of Montrose at Ascot ("Oh, Taylor, you really are a wonderful trainer!"), made the gruff response, "Good horses make good trainers, your Grace." This is, of course, the case, though the fact must not be lost sight of that a bad trainer can very easily ruin a good horse, whereas a good trainer will often get nice races out of moderate animals.

As has been the case for years past the topmost branches of the training tree are occupied by the masters of the "big" stables—Mr. Lambton, Fred

NEW PONIES SHOW UP PROMISINGLY

DAILY WORK BEING DONE BY DERBY SUBSCRIPTION GRIFFINS AND AUSTRALIAN ANIMALS

(By "Capt. Foster")

The past week has been most interesting and I was very much impressed with quite a number of gallops. The course is full of activity these mornings, and one is kept fully occupied watching each gallop—singly or in pairs—as the ponies come sweeping down the straight, at intervals of fifteen seconds or less, during the busiest hour of the morning between 6-45 and 7-45 o'clock.

DERBY GRIFFINS

Some Impressive Performances

Messrs. Hall & Shenton's The Red-Shank had a spin last Wednesday week. (20/12/33) over three-quarters of a mile, and my watch registered a total time of 1-49 2/5. On Friday morning (22/12/33) with Mr. Frost in the saddle, he covered the mile in a shade under 2-16 so I am told. I was only able to "chime" his last three-quarters and I made the time 1-42, separate quarters being 33 3/5, 34 2/5, 34. A very fine performance indeed considering that the animal has not been down very long. I saw him finishing a quarter last Wednesday morning, and he was moving in good style.

Mr. Dunbar's griffins are doing faster work these days and of his lot I rather fancy his Bay with a White Blaze. Last Wednesday week (20/12/33) this pony in company with a grey covered the last three-quarters in 1-44 4/5, taking 31 4/5 for the last quarter. Last Friday morning (22/12/33) all his three griffins entered a mile and a quarter in about 3-05, coming home full of running in 31 seconds. Mr. Dynasty's string of griffins have not been idle, and they were all asked to show some form. His kept-over grey stallion negotiated a mile and a quarter in 2-54, last 1/4 in 1-03, last 1/4 in 31 3/5. The last mile was done in 2-14, a rattling good gallop. His grey mare (a very breezy looking animal) could not maintain the pace, and fell away about 100 yards from the winning post, beaten by about 3 lengths.

This gallop should bring her on a good deal and I fully expect her to put up a good performance when she is again asked to show her paces. His new grey stallion went nicely, his "pow" of a mile and a quarter took 2-58 3/5, last quarter in 33 2/5. There is still plenty of room for improvement yet.

QUALITY TOO?

Messrs. Kong Bros' griffins are still confined to slow work. The stable, I gather, shelters some good griffins but I like his big Bay the best of all.

Messrs. Li and Li's have quantity but I am uncertain as to quality. I consider Soldier of Britain and Soldier of China are his two best griffins. The former certainly scores on looks but the latter is, I hear, classed A at Lloyds. Soldier of China is a new comer to the course and I have not yet seen him show his paces. Soldier of Britain moves very impressively but he has done no fast work. Last Wednesday week (20/12/33) he entered the last three-quarters of a mile in 1-54, last half mile in 1-08 and last quarter in 30 dead. Last Wednesday morning (22/12/33) I saw him finishing, and he was striding out like a good 'un.

Mr. Hem's griffins are doing slow cantering work and they all—especially the three stallions—look capable of winning races. Hudge, in this stable, but the property of Mr. C. B. Brown, impresses me as being a griffin of class and a very taking mover.

Messrs. Mackie and Grayburn's griffins are also doing faster work. Of their three, the chestnut (Garry by name) is my pick. Last Friday Garry beat his stable companion Ribble in a mile and a quarter gallop. The total time was 3-03, last half mile in 1-08, last quarter in 31.

Messrs. Samson's kept-over griffins do not impress me one little bit. Naughty Face and Lucky Face are reputed to be good ponies but so far they do not fill "mine eyes". The same may be said about Mr. Ho Kom Tong's latest purchase—a dun griffin—I like his Bay, with a White Blaze, and his grey mare, both ponies with nice actions. I also like his Ronn.

Mr. Sonras' kept-over Prima Donna is a grand looking mare. She is reputed to be good but somehow I feel her action is not as free as it might be. Last Friday morning she entered one and a half miles in 3-39, last half mile in 1-07, last quarter in 31, going very easily. His Fra Diavolo does not appeal to me.

SUBS. GRIFFINS

Extracts From My Note-Book

Jottings from my Note Book reveal that Mr. H.S.Y.'s Chesterfield (No. 30) is coming on nicely, and that he is a pony that will repay any interest one may take in his work.

Messrs. Li Lan Sang and Yuo Shun Wan's The Carp (No. 58) on Friday last galloped a mile in 43-1-22-1-56 2/5-2-28 4/5, and last Wednesday morning he went a similar distance in 41-1-19-1-52 3/5-2-26 3/5. He moves nicely.

Messrs. Sturt and Lobel's Sarabande (No. 133) appears to enjoy his work. His is a shapely animal and on looks ought to be able to gallop. Mrs. Lewis' St. Ives (No. 40) appears to me more and more after each gallop, and I feel sure that he is a certain winner at the annual Meeting.

I was most impressed with his recent canter of a mile and three-quarters (accompanied by Bran Tub (No. 39), the property of Mr. Sureton). I timed his last three quarters in 37 2/5-1-13 3/5-1-46 last quarter in 32 2/5, and he finished strongly. He certainly had the legs of Bran Tub on that occasion.

Mr. Li Fuk Wing's Utopian (No. 48) appeared to me to be a game pony as he did not lose his style when covering three quarters in 1-44 2/5, last half mile in 1-08 2/5, last quarter in 34 2/5.

ENCOURAGING WORK.

Bird of Paradise (No. 43) and In Good Time (No. 110) owned by Mr. Li Po Chun showed up well—especially the former—in a spin of a mile and a quarter in 42-1-21-2-02-2-38-3-10.

Mr. Chiu Pun Fan's Little Beauty (No. 121) is a nice-mover and will repay watching. So far he has been confined to slow cantering work. Mr. Leong Kwok Cheung's Cavalcade (No. 53) is another animal I fancy. I was impressed with his three quarter mile "pow" in 38-1-12 2/5-1-44 2/5.

Mr. Ho Kom Tong's Classic Hall (No. 32) has so far put up the best three quarter mile gallop. 33 1/5-1-08-1-40 2/5.

THE AUSTRALIANS

Governor's Pony Runs Well

His Excellency The Governor's Nell Gwyn on Wednesday morning last covered the mile in 33 3/5-1-05-1-35 3/5-2-05. On Friday last she entered one and three quarters miles in 42-1-25-2-05-2-45-3-24-3-59 and on the Wednesday before that (20/12/33) she went an easy mile and a quarter in 36-1-09-1-45-2-18-2-47 3/5.

Miss Shenton's Fanling Fox did two gallops of a mile last week namely:—

On Wednesday 34 1/5-1-06 1-37 2-06 2/5
On Friday 33 1/5-1-03 1-33 3/5 2-02 4/5

Messrs. Hall & Shenton's The Goose on the 20/12/33 covered the mile in 35-1-10-1-40 2/5-2-07 3/5 and on the 22/12/33 a mile and a quarter in 35-1-07-1-42-2-14-2-44 3/5.

I was only able to clock Mrs. Dunbar's Princess Angelina for three quarters of a mile, viz:—34-1-05-1-35, going very strong—(Continued on Page 7.)

SUNDAY'S RACES AT FANLING

ATTRACTIVE PROGRAMME TO OPEN OVER-STICKS SEASON

LARGE ATTENDANCE AND GOOD SPORT PROMISED

(By "Capt. Foster")

The first Meeting of the 1933/1934 Fanling Hunt and Race Club Season will be held on Sunday next and, given fine weather, a large attendance will no doubt be at Quanti, as the programme is a very attractive one. The Card consists of five events, with good entries for each race, and good racing is anticipated.

The curtain rises at 2-30 p.m. prompt with the

MACHINE GUN TROOP HURDLE.

Mouche, the property of Captain Potts, Officer Commanding Machine Gun Troop, is decidedly my first choice for this event, and I fancy White Stars and Peter Davey will split second and third places.

NEW YEAR'S EVE HURDLE.

A field of twelve will most probably face the starter here. On form Festival Eve has this race safe in his keeping, and Burgomaster and The Gidwall should follow him home.

TAI PO STEEPLECHASE.

I hear most favourable reports of No Fear and I am sure he will do well at the jumping game, but as this is his first attempt over sticks I can only give him second place. I cannot see him beating Marquis Hall who I predict will win easily. The ever-green Duke of Milan is going well but, in this instance, I fear he will have to be content with third place.

TALLY HO HURDLE.

Mr. Johnnie Hope should have a comfortable winning ride on Duncie as I cannot possibly see any of the other entrants making him gallop unless it is the Crook. This North is a new comer from the North and he may be quite capable of upsetting the apple-cart. The Curlew will I think be good enough for a place.

ST. JOHN'S CUP (UNOFFICIAL).

This is undoubtedly the race of the day, and it will attract a large field. In a race of this nature, a little "joss" is required, or rather I should say that "bad-luck" is decidedly "in-bow" for one to be concerned with the finish. Given good running and without interference, I can only see three ponies with equal chances of winning, and they are Winchester Stag, Tom Cobby and Wisdom Stag. The first two named ponies are well known and Winchester Stag has up to now proved himself to be the best cross-country pony at Fanling. I hear safely first past the post, but I can see him being very hard pressed by Tom Cobby and Wisdom

Unsuccessful Pony Auction Sale

CHEAP BARGAINS FOR BUYERS

(By "Captain Foster")

The Auction last Thursday week reminded me of the days prior to 1927 when, at the yearly Sales subsequent to the Annual Race Meetings, ponies were literally given away.

Owners came in for a bad time at the last sales; purchasers had matters all their own way and several bargains were picked up, notably City of Brisbane, Sticky-past and The Goat. These three ponies, in my opinion, were practically given away and I think their new owners will in time come to realize how fortunate they have been in securing them at ridiculously low prices.

Needless to say quite 95% of the ponies that were put up with a "reserve" were withdrawn, the bids being far below the figures placed for them.

EXPERIMENT FAILS.

Either as an experiment, or owing to adverse circumstances, a number of Derby Griffins were included in the Sale and the Dealers must have been most disappointed with the result.

Two or three of them were withdrawn but Mr. Tang secured a very stylish Brown mare for $430, the original price asked by the Dealer, I understand, being in the vicinity of $3,000. Time will tell whether or not Mr. Tang has secured a bargain, but I think one is safe in predicting that no Dealer will again try the experiment of selling his Derby griffins at a Public Auction.

FOOTBALL IN THE RAIN

NAVY AND ARMY DRAW IN CHARITY MATCH

(By "Veritas").

Depressing conditions spoilt both the attendance and the football at yesterday's charity match at Sookunpoo between the Army and Navy. Nevertheless, in spite of the driving rain (I imagine it fell heavier at Sookunpoo than in the City), the event was carried through according to schedule, and those who braved the elements to fill the stand were rewarded with an interesting game of football.

It was hoped that this match would act as a curtain-raiser to the Navy's Lai Wah engagement to-morrow, but unhappily they had to field a depleted team, and it is therefore hardly fair to draw comparisons or conclusions. The result—a draw of two goals each—was entirely fitting. Albeit the Army had to make a smart recovery to save the game, for the Navy were two up at one stage.

Apart from the introduction of Mullane for Allen, the Army turned out as advertised, but the Navy were forced to effect changes. Pepper coming in for Liddington in goal, Blair taking McGuire's place at centre-half and Fairless deputising for Hudspeth on the right wing.

The effect of the overhead and ground conditions had on the players was an illuminating example of the drawback of Hongkong's usually fine football weather. Players become so accustomed to hard grounds, that immediately the surface is drenched, they are comparatively helpless.

The most noticeable defect on both sides yesterday was lack of ball control and of adaptability to the conditions.

The sliding tackle, almost essential on such a ground, was completely ignored, and as quick turning and recovery were rendered difficult, defenders were constantly being beaten for possession.

It was surprising that no more than four goals were scored. The opportunities were there, but care-corner kicks. In view of the state of the ball, were astonishingly fine.

Ridley was steady throughout but he made the one big mistake of trying to keep the ball close, when conditions demanded that it should be swung about. Harris of the Borderers committed the same fault, and McQuade was little better in this respect. Had the Army wingers been kept supplied with long forward passes, they would, I am convinced, have won. The short inter-passing in the centre of the field was invariably nipped in the bud by the watchful James and West.

Cork played a brainy game at centre-half, and he is, in my respects one of the most polished pivots in local football. He had Langmead and Smith fairly bottled up, but was little less successful against the wily Barnett, who was the best forward on the field, though badly supported.

SMITH DISAPPOINTS. Mullane performed extraordinarily well, especially when it is taken into consideration that he had to look after the best Navy wing. It must also be taken into consideration that Dudley helped him with some good, hard spilling work.

Morrison and Podmore completed the subjugation of the right wing. Incidentally this was the poorest display I have seen Smith give this season, and Fairless is not quite in the same class as Hudspeth.

Apart from Barnett who was always attractive when possessing the ball, the Navy forwards did

WEEK-END SOCCER.

Mr. G. T. May, Hon. Secretary of the Hongkong Football Association notifies that the Lincolns will play the East Lancs in a first division match on the Kowloon Football Club ground to-morrow, kick-off at 4 p.m.

For the Children's Play-ground match on Monday, the Hon. Sir Thos. Southorn, K.B.E., C.M.G., will kick off at 3.30 p.m. on the Club ground.

VETERAN WINS AGAIN

FLOTILLA LEAGUE POINTS

H.M.S. Veteran followed up their China Fleet Football League victory of Wednesday, with a win in the Flotilla League yesterday, when they garnered two points at the expense of H.M.S. Whitshed by two goals to nil.

The game was evenly contested, the winners netting goal in each half. Flint put them ahead before the interval, and Blimmer placed the issue beyond doubt in the concluding stages.

M.C.C. WINS EASILY.

Calcutta, Dec. 28. In a one-day match played here, the Marylebone tourists easily defeated an Anglo-Indian and Indian team by eight wickets. The home eleven secured only 123 runs in their innings and the M.C.C. required a short time only to knock up the necessary total. They scored 125 for the loss of two wickets.

FLAT-RACING REVIEW

Darling, Frank Butters, Joe Lawson, Captain Boyd-Rochford, and Jack Jarvis. This year Fred Darling heads the list, turning the tables on Frank Butters to whom he was second last year. Darling found some bitter mixed with his sweets, a notable case being that of Manitoba, who was assessed by Mr. Fawcett as the best two-year-old colt of 1932, but whose displays in the classic races this year were deplorable.

BRILLIANT MYROBELLA. Classic honours proved beyond the grasp of Myrobella, who plainly showed in the One Thousand that she doesn't get much further than six furlongs. Over this latter distance and over a furlong less, however, she showed all her old dazzling speed. She is, we understand, to be kept in training for another season. Darling trains a useful lot of two-year-olds, and they should do the Beckhampton stable credit next year.

Mr. Lambton, who severs his connection with Stanley House on the last day of the present year, occupies third place while Captain Boyd-Rochford keeps Joe Lawson out of fourth position.

THE JOCKEYS.

As for the jockeys, what can be said save that it was a case of Richards first and the rest nowhere? Richards will again be riding first jockey for Beckhampton next season, and we see no reason why he should not retain his supremacy for some years yet, as he is never likely to become really heavy. "Rufus" Bensley and Caralake both show excellent averages, and Steve Donoghue, Newitt, Fox, Weston, Perryman, Johnnie Dines, and Ray have all done well. Though a veteran, Donoghue retains all his old skill, and his ride on Colombo at Kempton was a masterpiece.

Of the apprentices, E. Smith has done best, and it seems quite safe to prophesy a brilliant career for this lad if he keeps a level head.

In from Skinner's centre, and he increased the margin to two goals after the change over by walking Fairless's centre into the net.

The Army replied through Mathias who cut in and beat Pepper from close range, whilst before the end Ridley broke the side of the net when he passed the goalkeeper with a rasping ground shot from a difficult angle.

An entertaining diversion was created before the start of the match by a musical programme given by a married Marine band, who at half-time smartly carried out formation marching on the ground.

Admiral Sir Frederic Droyer kicked off after being presented to the teams. Capt. Haguo efficiently refereed the match.

QUARTER DECK WIN RETURN MATCH

Kent Daymen Rather Unlucky

Despite the weather, the Daymen of the Kent played the Quarter Deck of the Kent in a return football match yesterday afternoon on the Dockyard ground and lost by three goals to one. The Quarter Deck were much better represented this time and had four of the Ship's players.

The Quarter Deck started the attack and opened the scoring through Flindall, who headed in from a corner. Nothing could stop Flindall, who again broke through to find the net. For the rest of the first half, the play was mostly in the Daymen's half. Holden continually being called upon to save.

The first half closed with the Quarter Deck leading two nil. The second half saw the Daymen come into their own, and it was only sheer misfortune which prevented them from scoring. They had the majority of the play, yet the only time the Quarter Deck approached their goal, the defence was pierced.

Sprunt, however, managed to break through before the final whistle to score the loser's only goal.

LADIES' GOLF.

WHERE SHOULD THE UMPIRE STAND?

TRIANGULAR GAMES DISCUSSED IN DETAIL

YESTERDAY'S ASTONISHING EXHIBITION

(By R. Abbit)

There has been a great deal of very enjoyable cricket played over the Christmas holidays and the game may now be said to have got fairly off the mark after the invariable dislocation caused by the Interport Matches. I have already dealt with the most important game, between the Army and the Club. This is the first of the Triangular Tournament. The Kowloon Cricket Club has developed enormously in recent years and they have hit on the happy idea of playing the Service side which was not out at the H.K.C.C. Ground. To-morrow and on Sunday they take on the Army—their ground is busy with the Children's Sports on New Year's Day—while on Boxing Day they played the Navy.

K.C.C. v. NAVY.

The Kowloon side was not entirely at full strength as Willis Hung, Jox, and Lewis were not playing, but they included Major Bonavia who had been left out of the Army team. Kowloon batted first and, after Teddy Fincher had been sent back early, a fine stand ensued between Ernie Fincher and Stapleton. The latter, as usual, started slowly but he bricked up later on and had seven boundaries in his innings of fifty-one. Fincher played very nice cricket and made seventy-eight, including eleven fours, before being caught off A. B. Large, who bowled very steadily and well. His final figures were 21-5-7-4, which in a total of two hundred and nine for six were pretty good. Richards (18-4-40-2) also bowled steadily though not so successfully. None of the other bowlers met with success. Bonavia at the end of the innings played free cricket for thirty-four not out in which were five fours. Fincher then made a very sporting declaration giving the Navy fair time in which to get the runs.

A RACE FOR RUNS.

The Navy went for the runs and most of them got a few, though Stevenson, who was perhaps unlucky to lose the decision in the matter of a stumping, Fieldstead and Cheyne did not come off. But, with five down for a hundred and three, Larkin, who was hitting hard, took charge and over forty were added for the sixth wicket, and when Browning joined him the runs were his off without further delay. The K.C.C. have to blame themselves as they dropped Larkin (no, I cannot write it) times. But he had eleven boundaries in his seventy-six not out. Browning also seems to have been somewhat violent as he had a six, a five, and four fours in his first one not out. The Army were doing a most interesting match and from the teams playing I know it was a most sporting one. I wish some of these clever scientists could teach me how to be in two places in one time.

A CURIOUS POINT.

I believe it was during the play of this match that a curious (though definitely not controversial) point arose as to the position where the umpire shall stand. Apparently a bowler was bowling left arm round very close to the wicket, with a straight run up to the wicket. The Umpire was standing pretty close up to the stumps at the bowler's end. There is, mark you no question of a left hander with a circular run popping out from behind the bowler and delivering the ball before the batsman can really see him). For some reason or other which I cannot give any explanation as it seems very absurd to me—the batsman stated afterwards that the umpire was somewhat obscuring his view and he enquired if he could have asked the umpire to stand further back. There is of course always the right to ask an Umpire to move. The actual law—or rather "Instruction to Umpires" says that "An Umpire should stand where he can clearly see the action of the ball and his decision may be required." This during the delivery of the ball, with the probable appeals for l.b.w. or catch at the wicket is always interpreted as a position in line with the stumps. But most umpires stand a yard or two behind the bowler's wicket. If a left hand round-the-wicket bowler is starting his run to the one side of, or behind, the umpire, it is the usual custom for the umpire, if necessary to retire a yard or so, and to direct the bowler to run between him and the wicket. This is justified by the rule that says that the batsman is to be fair or not to play. It is obviously not in the spirit of cricket to hide behind the umpire until just before popping out and throwing one down. I must admit I have never heard of a batsman objecting to an umpire standing close up to the wicket on any other grounds. When I used to be a bowler—right hand over—I often asked an umpire to stand back from the stumps a bit, especially if his figure resembled mine, and my recollection is that he always did. But I cannot quite grasp this new point. The fact is that anyone may—politely—request a favour of the umpire, but that he will—also politely—inlet on standing where he can clearly see that upon which he has to adjudicate. As an example, you often see the bowler's hand move round square with the popping his happened in the Army v. Navy Triangular Tournament cricket match yesterday under fantastic conditions: 513 runs were scored in 4½ hours play. Batmen averaged over two runs a minute during the first hour.

After losing 4 wickets for 24 runs with an innings deficit starting them in the face, the Army declared at 230 for 9 leaving the Navy an hour in which to score 89 to win.

The whole match produced 798 runs for 31 wickets, an average of over 25 runs per wicket. It reads like a Sheffield Shield match!

position: Marsham was early out to Elvin, but owing no doubt to the wet ball, the left-hander failed to find a length and after six overs the Army Captain took him off for "wood". Garthwaite got one past Alexander Siddalair just over twenty, but there the Army success ended. Larkin and Carver sent the hundred up, and then some before stumps were drawn.

The overnight position thus left the Army in a very favourable position, but the small lead unless a bright sun turned the wicket into a glue-pot. Anyway the honours of the day went to them.

THURSDAY'S PLAY.

Writing now on Thursday I can say very definitely that there was not any run but a beastly drizzle and, the wicket, proved easy. The Navy took full advantage of it. Larkin was most unlucky to miss his century by a run. Carver, who by the way was only twelfth man, made a very good sixty-two and Eaden and Pontfield got a few. But the latter however went to Holland Martin who hit like a ticking horse and got seventy before the innings closed for three hundred and nine. Admittedly that the Army bowlers were handicapped by a greasy ball it was a good bit of work. As he is a most excellent wicket-keeper it is cruel hard lines on the Navy that he cannot play against the Club but I understand Tarantula sails on Saturday.

The position after fifteen was that the Army wanted a hundred and forty-two runs to save the innings defeat. The wicket seemed easy and a raw cold drizzle did not make it any the nicer for the fielders and bowlers. In fact a slippery ball later was almost certain. Richards and Large started very accurately and each took an early wicket as the former bowled J. F. Williams while Large disposed of Taylor—both for ducks. J. F. Williams did not look promising. Then just as Colledge and Mitchell looked for stopping the rot the latter was brilliantly caught at the wicket on the leg side off one from Large which he tried to glance. J. F. Williams then tried to glance a couple of runs and Colledge and Browning were left to watch Richards. In his first over Colledge in hitting a bad one put it up to deep square leg. 24-4-71.

Peter Williams and Garthwaite then came together and they knew it was a case of one or the other. The drizzle. They played very free cricket. Williams was less over-confident than usual. Their running between the wickets was an education to watch. Gradually they established a superiority and ten followed ten. Williams had a straight drive which caught on the green, two fours to long leg and a late cut off successive balls, and next over straight drove Marsham out of the ground. Just after the hundred was hoisted. Five runs later however a disaster befell the Army as Garthwaite got his leg in front of a straight one. He had made a very pretty thirty-one.

INNINGS DEFEAT SAVED.

Waiting held up an end well and got thirteen before he was very well caught low down at second slip 140-0-13. A couple of maidens—in one of which Large nearly had Williams, followed and then with a two and a four Butler saved the innings defeat. Next over Williams should have been stamped out. Large put the mistake was not expensive as Browning bowled him off stump with one that completely beat him. The Army skipper had played a brilliant innings though he had latterly been very quiet. I gather his recent injury and the consequent strapping across his face does not help his seeing the ball and his eyes tired. (148-7-70). Cragg and Butler began to get runs fairly fast, and it was evident the bowlers were having great difficulty in holding the greasy ball. It had been drizzling steadily for more than an hour. At last Large who had been bowling excellently got Butler's middle stick 160-0-10. Conditions got

Waring held up an end well and got thirteen before he was very well caught low down at second slip 140-0-13. A couple of maidens—in one of which Large nearly had Williams, followed and then with a two and a four Butler saved the innings defeat. Next over Williams should have been stamped out. Large put the mistake was not expensive as Browning bowled him off stump with one that completely beat him. The Army skipper had played a brilliant innings though he had latterly been very quiet. I gather his recent injury and the consequent strapping across his face does not help his seeing the ball and his eyes tired. (148-7-70). Cragg and Butler began to get runs fairly fast, and it was evident the bowlers were having great difficulty in holding the greasy ball. It had been drizzling steadily for more than an hour. At last Large who had been bowling excellently got Butler's middle stick 160-0-10. Conditions got

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

Solution to Previous Contract Problem

This is the last of the four interesting hands given to the writer by the team that will represent the Auction Bridge Club of Chicago at the Vanderbilt cup match. It was played by A. B. Brown, a member of the Chicago team when it tied for the Vanderbilt cup the last time the event was played in the west—in 1928. Brown long has been rated one of the outstanding players—not only in Chicago, but in the country.

While South's hand is rather

♠ A K 9 7 3 2	♥ J 3	♦ A K 5 4	♣ A 10 9
♠ Q J 10 5	♥ Q 6	♦ A J 6 4	♣ 8 7 4
♠ A 9 8 2	♥ S Dealer	♦ Q 10 7	♣ J 6
♠ 8 4	♥ K 5 2	♦ 9 6 5 3	♣ Q 10 7 3
♠ Duplicate—None Vul.	♠ Opening lead—♦ K.	♠ South	♠ West
♠ Pass	♠ Pass	♠ 1 ♠	♠ 2 ♠
♠ Pass	♠ Pass	♠ 3 ♠	♠ 3 ♠
♠ 1 ♠	♠ Double	♠ Pass	♠ Pass

weak, his partner has bid and re-bid spades and has shown a second suit. Therefore, South is justified in taking the contract to four. In the face of East's bid, and holding four spades to the queen, Jack, ten, West hardly can be blamed for doubling the contract.

However, it was the double that gave the situation away and allowed Mr. Brown to make his contract.

The Play

The king of diamonds was opened and followed by another diamond, which Brown, in the North, trumped. A small heart was played and East went in with the ace. He returned another diamond and again Brown trumped.

Declarer now played the jack of hearts and won in dummy with the king. A small trump was played from dummy and West played the queen.

North won the trick with the king. He now led the king of clubs and then a small club, winning in dummy with the queen. At this point, the remaining cards were as follows:

♠ A 9 7	♥ A 6	♦ A 10 9 8 7	♣ Q
♠ J 10 5	♥ S Dealer	♦ 8	♣ J
♠ 8	♥ 5	♦ 10 7	♣ 10

Declarer now led the nine of diamonds from dummy and trumped in his own hand with the seven of spades. He re-entered dummy with the ten of clubs.

The losing heart now was led and West was helpless. If he trumped with an honour, Brown would discard the ace of clubs and win the last two tricks with the ace and nine of spades.

However, if West trumped low, Brown then would win two trump tricks and his contract would be made.

Today's Contract Problem

North and South can make a small slam if they play the hand at the proper suit. With which suit as trump do you think the slam can be made, and why?

♠ J 9 5 4	♥ A K 9 7 5	♦ 10 6	♣ 8
♠ (Blind)	♥ S Dealer	♦ 10 8 2	♣ 9 7
♠ A K Q 6	♥ Q J 10 8 2	♦ A 8	♣ 9 7

PUBLIC MONEY

ITEMS FOR MEETING OF FINANCE COMMITTEE

Votes totalling $27,705 will go before the meeting of the Finance Committee of the Legislative Council which is to be held this afternoon.
The following memoranda explaining the items are issued:

Estimates, 1933.
Public Works Department, Other Charges—14, Upkeep of Motor and Steam Rollers $1,200.

Provision made in Estimates (page
92 sub-head 14) $10,000.

The increased expenditure is principally due to heavy repairs and replacements which were found necessary at the annual examination of the rollers.

Education Department—10, Incidental Expenses $600.

Provision made in Estimates (page
73 sub-head 10) $8,000.

This vote was reduced by $200 as compared with the 1932 figure. One new school (the Junior Technical) required unforeseen expenditure from this vote.

Botanical and Forestry Department—12, Protection of Plantations.
Service of a Public Works Department lorry $30.

Provision made in Estimates (page
71 sub-head 12) $1,500.

The usual transport not being available a special lorry had to be obtained and paid for on one occasion for the conveyance of foresters to the scene of a hill fire.

Botanical and Forestry Department—15, Upkeep of Car. Upkeep of department car $10.

Provision made in Estimates (page
71 sub-head 15) $1,000.

Repairs which were necessary for keeping the department car in running order had to be carried out.

Fire Brigade.

Fire Brigade—Special Expenditure.
Motor Turntable, Water Tower and Fire Escape $23,000.

The Motor Turntable, Water Tower and Fire Escape were ordered through the Crown Agents in 1932 and a vote of $60,000 was provided in 1932
Estimates.

Of this sum only $32,510.56 was paid last year. A vote of $28,000 is therefore requested to meet the balance of the cost of the machine.

Colonial Secretary's Office and

INDIA'S TARIFF

JAPAN DESIRES POSTPONEMENT

Tokyo, Dec. 28.
It is reliably reported that the Japanese Government has decided to instruct its delegation at Delhi to request the Indian Government to suspend application of the new proposals carried pending amicable settlement by negotiations.—
Reuter.

Emergency Measures.

Osaka, Dec. 28.
An emergency conference was held this afternoon by the Spinners' Association, the Cotton Textile Exporters' Association and the Raw Cotton Buyers' Association, and it was decided to order the withdrawal of Japan's delegates from the trade parley now in progress at Delhi, before the end of the year, after seeking an understanding with the Government.—Reuter.

Legislature—7, Transport $5.
Provision made in Estimates (page
10 sub-head 7) $50.

Travelling expenses for messengers and coolies were formerly paid from sub-head 5, (Incidental Expenses) but from May this year all such expenditure has been charged to sub-head 7 (Transport), causing a slight excess on this vote.

Police Force—17, Light and Electric Fans $1,500.

Provision made in Estimates (page
47 sub-head 17) $40,000.

Owing to more electric current and gas being consumed than was estimated for, due to additional rented quarters, and increased requirements in connection with the new No.
2 Police Station, the vote of $40,000 is exhausted.

Fire Brigade—7, Light and Electric Fans $500.

Provision made in Estimates (page
37 sub-head 7) $4,000.

Owing to more electric current and gas being consumed than was estimated for, due to additional rented quarters, the vote of $4,000 is exhausted.

Total $27,705.00.

CREDITORS ANGRY

REICHSBANK ATTITUDE CRITICISED IN LONDON

London, Dec. 28.
The British long term and medium term Creditors' Committee has sent a letter to Doctor
Schacht, President of the Reichsbank, protesting against the treatment accorded to the views of creditors' representatives at a recent meeting in Berlin.

The Committee states they expected some respect would be paid to their observations and they cannot see what useful purpose was served by bringing representatives to Berlin merely to await a decision apparently predetermined by the Reichsbank.

British Securities.

Calculations of Stock Exchange securities by the Bankers' Magazine show that the value of 365 representative securities has risen in the past year from $6,079,765-000 to $6,632,632,000.—British Wireless.

CHEAP TELEPHONES.

SIR KINGSLEY WOOD'S NEW SERVICE ANNOUNCED

London, Dec. 28.
Sir Kingsley Wood, Postmaster-
General, in a broadcast speech last night, announced that a telephone service at cheaper rates is to be introduced next April for the benefit of the small user.

Under the new system a group of four to eight subscribers living close together will be connected.
Absolute privacy is automatically secured for conversations as a result of a new apparatus designed by Post Office engineers and when one member of the group is using the line no other can overhear or interfere with his call.—British

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

YOUR CHILDREN

What Putting on "Front" Means to Child

By Olive Roberts Barton

Our greatest course is paying too much attention to what people think.

We make any sacrifice to the great god "front." Many of our homes are, if not actually whitened sepulchres, at least one colour on the outside and another inside.

Think it over—Isn't almost the closest thing to our hearts the desire to create an impression with our neighbours?

Naturally, we have a certain pride, and we also cherish a strong feeling for privacy, both admirable and forgivable enough at most times. But when they begin to interfere with the truth, honesty, and direct living, then they are costing too much and cease to be virtues.

Losing Child's Self-Respect
One of the many tolls they take is the self-respect of our children. And it is deplorable that many parents who won't condone a lie at any other time, demand that their families go out and tell fairy tales about home.

John Smith needs new tires on his car. He hasn't been able to use it for a month. "Remember, Jack," he warns his son, "If Mr. Jones says anything about the car, tell him I hurt my foot and can't drive it."

Children hate these lies. Yet we always think of them as allies, that they, too, are sensitive about money scarcity. As a matter of fact, they are not—unless we make them so.

Lean times have had one good result; they have made us a brotherhood in trouble. It is not as important to-day what Mr. and Mrs. Jones think as it was a few years ago. We are "pretty sure" that the Joneses, too, don't sleep any too well.

But the habit has been rather deeply set and in spite of the crumbling of false standards, we cannot seem to get away from its evils.

Truth Should Be Told
Mary goes out in Cousin Lou's winter coat. She doesn't mind wearing the coat so much as she minds parading around in false colours. Her mother tells her to say it was one she fixed up. By that time Mary hates the coat and

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

Some Useful "Don'ts"

When it comes to being beautiful, there are as many things you shouldn't do as there are those which you should.

It may sound a little confusing, but the really clever woman figures out all the rules of the beauty game and then does only the things which add to her beauty and charm, avoiding all the factors which might make her less attractive.

For example, knowing where not to put rouge is about as important as knowing just where it should go. If the shape of your face profits by the placement of rouge high on the cheekbones, don't make the mistake of putting it up there one time and down low the next. Don't put rouge on your ears. And don't put it on your chin unless some reliable authority has figured out that it will be flattering to you.

Discretion by Day.

Don't use too much eye make-up in the daytime. Say what you will, evening is really the time for it. Of course, if your brows and lashes are quite colourless, by all means use a little cosmetic dye on them.

Don't dress your hair in an elaborate, hard-to-keep-in-place coiffure when you go to the office. Save it for evening or dress-up occasions and stick to a simple hairdress for business hours.

Don't wear pink rouge with orange lipstick. The tones of your rouge and lipstick should match.

In other words, let your own good taste act as a check on your make-up ideas—the same as it does in your choice of clothes.

wearing her own clothes, what is the difference if she prefers them to Cousin Lou's handsomer ones? We lay too much stress on outside opinion—what people think about our possessions and incomes. We make children unhappy in a hundred ways by so doing.

Put Pebeco—half an inch or so—on your toothbrush when you clean your teeth.

Notice how it stimulates the glands, you feel the cleansing moisture rushing into every crevice, washing away every lurking food remnant, and purifying the whole mouth. Your teeth are actually bathing in a cleansing, germ-destroying flow.

Rinse and gargle mouth and throat, and you will have a feeling of mouth cleanliness and freshness never before experienced.

The salty, invigorating flavour of Pebeco is proof of its medical value.

CHAPTER XXX

Bannister stopped backward. There was no change in his expression except that his lips tightened. "So I'm not deceiving you," he said. "You mean you knew—?"

The girl laughed. "I've known all along," she told him. "Remember that day we talked at the hotel? You told me your name was David Bannister. Somehow the name seemed familiar. I couldn't remember at first where I'd heard it. Then when I was in the department store that afternoon I wandered into the book department. There was a picture of you on a table with some of your books. Then of course I knew right away. What did you mean by telling me you were 'nobody of importance'?"

"Of course! And I've read your books, Mr. Bannister. Both of them. I think they're wonderful!"

"Hardly that," he said. "Oh, but they are! They seem—so real. The characters, I mean. Maggie and Philip and Sammie. Sammie especially—I think I like him best. You write so beautifully; even the 'ugly parts' are beautiful!"

"Well," said Bannister, smiling, "I'm certainly glad to know I have such an enthusiastic reader."

"I should think all your readers would be enthusiastic."

"They're not," he told her. "Far from it! You should have seen what some of the critics said about 'Far Candle.' They panned it plenty."

"But," the girl defended, "they couldn't have understood it. Why, I thought—"

For several minutes they discussed the merits of Bannister's newest book. He could not help being impressed by her sound literary standards. It added immeasurably to the girl's praise to know that she had read widely, admired many of his favourites among the modern writers, criticized others whose work he considered negligible. She turned, resting one arm on the piano, and for the first time he noted the exquisite lines of the girl's throat. Creamy white, rounded. Her cheeks were creamy white, too. That, Bannister felt, should be remedied. A little colour would be an improvement. Studying the girl, he forgot that they were talking about literature.

Her question brought him promptly from his reverie. "What are you going to write about next?" she asked.

Bannister stirred uneasily. "Oh, I don't know," he said. "I haven't been thinking much about writing lately."

He couldn't tell her for the last two months writing had become a nightmare. He couldn't tell her that when he sat down at a desk a vision of Adele Allen came before him, driving away every thought of work. He couldn't tell her of the times he had given up, after hours of desperation, swearing never again to touch a type-writer. Write? Even the word was hateful to him.

"I'm knocking off," he explained. "For a while at least. That's why I came to Tremont."

He was spared further explanations as Kate Hewlett appeared in the doorway. "I heard some music in here," she said, "and it was lovely! You're going to play some more, aren't you, Miss Franco?"

"I'll be glad to," the girl told her. "What would you like to hear?"

"Oh, anything—just so it's music," Juliet Franco turned again to the piano. She played a waltz with a gay Spanish rhythm and then something in slower tempo, hauntingly sad and sweet.

"That's lovely," Mrs. Hewlett said. "Just lovely! I don't know how long it's been since anyone's touched that piano. It does sound so good—"

Bannister agreed with her. But it wasn't fair to keep their guest at the piano all evening. He asked Juliet if she would care to play bridge.

"I'm sorry," the girl apologized, "but I'm awfully stupid at bridge. I always have been. If you don't mind I think I'd like to go to my room. That was such a huge meal I ate." She turned to Mrs. Hewlett, smiling. "I'm afraid I'm sleepy."

"Then of course you'll go to your room, my dear," the older woman said. "I hope you get a good night's rest."

A few moments later Juliet left them. Kate Hewlett had taken up her basket of knitting from the table. For 20 minutes there was no sound except the clicking of the knitting needles. Then Mrs. Hewlett said, "David,"

He looked up from his magazine.

"Yes?"

"David, I think Miss Franco is awfully sweet. Where did you say you knew her? Was it in New York?"

"Yes," Bannister told her. "In New York." He returned to his magazine. A minute later he put it aside. "Aunt Kate," he said, "there's one thing I wanted to speak to you about. I want you to be careful not to say anything about this murder to Miss Franco. She's—well, the fact is there's been a loss in her family recently. A close relative. Very sad. That's why I don't think we should say anything to her about such a gruesome subject."

His aunt eyed him for an instant without speaking. Then she said, "Very well, David. I won't mention it."

"Thanks. Ho-hum! Believe I'll go upstairs and turn in. Little sleep might do me good."

"I agree with you," his aunt said tersely.

Bannister said good night and mounted the stairs. He entered his room but seemed in no hurry about going to bed. For a long time he sat, sunk far back in a comfortable old chair. He was looking at the picture of his grandfather on the opposite wall but he did not seem to be seeing it.

Then he went to the desk and rummaged through its drawers. They were in a disordered state and his method of searching for what he wanted was equally disordered. Old letters, pages of manuscript and clippings from newspapers fell to the floor. Bannister picked them up, jammed them back into the drawer and tried another. For several minutes the search proceeded unprofitably. Suddenly he drew forth an oblong bit of cardboard.

It was the photograph he had found on the floor of Tracy King's apartment, the wedding picture of 30 years ago. Bannister glanced at the bride in her ruffled wedding dress and the bridegroom with his impressive mustache. He turned the picture over and studied the back of the card minutely, but there was nothing to be found there.

Bannister gave it up. He placed the photograph on the desk before him, propping it against a pile of books. Then he sat back and looked at it.

After a while he reached for the picture and held it to the light. Bannister frowned. There were something familiar about that bridegroom. Why hadn't he noticed it before? It was something that just escaped remembrance. He had seen the man—or had he? Thirty years could make great changes. If the man in the photograph were dressed in modern clothes if the mustache were missing, how would he look?

Bannister tried to imagine the result but it was difficult. Who could say what the years—30 years—could do? The man looked much older than the woman in the

NANKING NAVY CLAIM OCCUPATION OF AMOY

A TOTAL LOSS

DRAMATIC RESCUE OF EXARCH'S CREW

London, Dec. 28. After spending more than a week aboard the stranded American vessel, Exarch which went aground off Cyprus on December 18, the crew has been forced to abandon the ship.

According to a message received by Lloyd's from Famagusta, East Cyprus, the transfer of the crew was effected in the face of the greatest danger.

Heavy seas were breaking over the vessel, which was hard aground. The hull had cracked in two places and the danger of the ship breaking up became hourly more imminent.

Through the raging seas, a line was taken ashore and the crew safely taken off in a breeches buoy. A report received by Lloyd's says the Exarch appears to be a total loss. Salvaging of the cargo will depend on the weather.

News of the wreck of the Exarch was received in dramatic circumstances. The first wireless message said the engines were disabled and the vessel was making water. The second message stated that the captain had committed suicide, but there were hopes of saving the ship.—Reuter.

REPORT NOT CONFIRMED

REBELS WITHDRAWING FROM FOOCHEW?

RIVAL FORCES WARMING UP

Shanghai, Dec. 29.

The China Press gives great prominence to a report "received by the local naval offices last night" to the effect that Nanking naval forces have occupied Amoy and other strategic points along the Fukien coast.

It is claimed that the captures were effected without resistance from the rebels, who had previously evacuated.

The report adds that the seat of the rebel government has been moved from Foochow to Changchow.—Reuter.

UNCONFIRMED.

The report of the occupation of Amoy is, however, entirely without confirmation from other sources, although it is understood that the abandonment of Foochow is contemplated owing to its exposure to attack from the sea.

News from the Fukien border concerning the outcome of the last few days' hostilities is conflicting with both General Shun Kwong-hon of the Nineteenth Route Army and the Chiang Kai-shek armies claiming victories.

Messages from Nanchang state that Chiang Kai-shek's troops have captured Shun Chang Hsien on the Fukien-Cheking border and that the Nanking troops are marching towards Yenching.

FOOCHOW CLAIMS.

From Foochow official quarters comes announcement of a general determination among members of the Revolutionary Government to stand against the Nanking attacks.

The church of the Holy Sepulchre at Jerusalem which is reported to be in danger of collapse.

General Tsi Ting-kai is personally directing the drive to Chichang of his troops, which are said to be making good progress, heading for Pucheng and Fuan.

FOOCHOW CALMER.

Foochow, Dec. 29.

The local populace has calmed down considerably as a result of the non-appearance of Nanking planes in the past two days. Many inhabitants are returning to the city from the outlying districts.

Though order has been restored, the rebel government still feels the lack of adequate anti-air defence.

The rebels at present possess only three air squadrons, each consisting of ten planes. This strength is much inferior to that possessed by the Central Government.

JAPANESE ENVOY.

Attention is centred on the movements of Mr. Suma, Secretary to the Japanese Legation at Peking, who arrived here early this week and has called on the rebel leaders including Gen. Chan Ming-shu. His visit was for the avowed purpose of consulting the rebel government about measures for the protection of Japanese citizens in Fukien.

Mr. Suma is proceeding to Formosa where he will presumably confer with the Governor of Formosa on the Fukien situation.—Central News.

SOVIET'S FEAR

WAR WITH JAPAN MENACES

New York, Dec. 28.

Soviet Russia may give her support to the League of Nations if that body continues to exert its influence to prevent war and to preserve peace, declared M. Joseph Stalin, the "Dictator" of the U.S.S.R. in an interview published by the New York Times to-day.

There is a real and grave danger from Japan's militant faction which they could not but prepare to meet, M. Stalin is quoted as saying.

The Russian leader said that it was his belief that Japan would be unwise to attack Russia as her economic position was none too sound and she had points of weakness in Korea, Manchuria and China, which had to be guarded.

The Soviet foreign trade developments, he went on, depended upon suitable trade arrangements. Gold production, he pointed out, was at present valued at over 100,000,000 roubles annually and could easily be quadrupled with more adequate machinery.

M. Stalin predicted that Great Britain would shortly sign a commercial treaty with the Soviet and that economic relations would be developed between the two countries.—Reuter.

picture. Must have been 30 then, at least. That would make him—well, somewhere around 60 now. Perhaps older.

But the familiarity persisted. Somewhere Bannister was sure he had seen that face. Where?

He himself had drifted over the continent, settled in a dozen different cities during the past six years. It might have been in Hollywood, Mexico City, Chicago—oh, there was no chance to figure it out that way!

He gave up the effort and began to undress. But in five minutes he was back again, staring at the photograph. A little later he sat at his desk, busy with cardboard and wrapping paper. He placed the photograph inside the cardboard, wrapped it securely. Then he took pen and ink and wrote, an address.

Afterward, because he was not in the least sleepy, he put on his coat, went down stairs and left the house. He walked two blocks until he reached a mail box and dropped the package inside.

SILVER HOPES
UNFULFILLED

Amidst all the confusion which has been created by President Roosevelt's silver plan, the only certainty which has emerged so far is that expectations held in some quarters of a likely rise in the world price of the commodity have not been realised. The opinion seems to be growing that, if rehabilitation of silver is one of the objects aimed at, the scheme does not go far enough. In this connexion, it is worth noting that numerous authorities in America are disposed to minimise the importance of the plan. The Speaker of the House of Representatives, for instance, thinks there should be "silver remonetization on a broader basis, arguing the necessity for a bimetallic base involving the rapid purchase of silver, against which silver certificates could be issued and made redeemable in gold. This, he thinks, would help to restore the 1926 prices more than anything else. An interesting point here is the contention that such a plan would make it unnecessary to maintain any ratio of silver to gold. Senator Wheeler, a keen silver advocate, is gratified that the Administration is treating silver as a favoured commodity, but he, likewise, wants something more than President Roosevelt has done, asking for unqualified silver remonetization, so that the country can issue currency against silver, as against gold. Senator Pittman also hopes that the President will go further. There is a possibility that this growing volume of dissatisfaction with the scheme as it stands may lead to further action, since the step taken by President Roosevelt does not close the door to a larger use of silver for coinage or bullion backing if he finds it desirable to extend the plan. London financiers already fear overproduction unless other action is taken. With prices still not materially affected by the Roosevelt plan, however, there is no real reason why there should be any rush to produce more. Yet, strangely enough, there is talk of renewed activity in the Canadian silver mines, whilst American silver States are excited over the possible profitable working of low-grade ores. Both these developments would appear to be based on the expectation of higher prices, an expectation which would appear to have no justification at the moment, especially in view of the fact that the United States produces only about one-sixth of the world total.

NOTES OF THE DAY

LAND SETTLEMENT

Mr. Lloyd George has recently revived his famous land settlement scheme, embodied in the phrase, two acres and a cow. But, as practical politics, what is the use of talking grandiloquently about establishing thousands of new small-holdings in England, as if it were only necessary to pass a Bill or two, and vote money, for the thing to be done? How different are the realities of the case, the history of every small-holdings scheme since 1906 has shown. We have now in England a very large urban and artisan population, a great part of which is accustomed to earn as much or more money, to work far shorter hours, and to shoulder far less risks and responsibilities for itself than any self-employed small-holder can or must.

FACTS AND THEORIES

No-one will easily get these people to take on the twelve-hour day the seven-day week, the habits of frugality and forethought, the deprivation of gregarious joys, which a smallholder must face to succeed. Nor will many of their wives care for migrating to conditions where water has to be pumped, and neither gas nor electricity is laid on, and the nearest picture-palace is several miles away. For economic and defensive reasons it might be considered desirable that the British Isles should once more raise a much larger proportion of its food from its own soil. That is a sound basis for policy. But it would be futile to pretend that the English people are tumbling over each other in the desire to raise it, or that we can pick and choose the manner in which it shall be raised.

MARKETING COMES FIRST

The prime need is that which the present Government has been the first to tackle seriously—the organisation of marketing. Make it possible for home farm produce to reach the vast British consumer public not, as heretofore, on terms less favourable than its overseas rivals, but on terms rather more favourable, and production must to some extent find its own channels. Different types of farming will prevail in different districts. Small-holders will be in the picture; but they will not be all over it; and may even not be very prominent. There is certainly no case for the taxpayer to spend untold millions in order artificially to make them so.

COTTON FROM INDIA

India grows an enormous quantity of raw cotton, but Lancashire has always disliked using it, because most of it is very low-grade. Seeing that the Egyptian native growers, whose cultural level cannot have been very different from the Indian, have been taught to grow the finest raw cotton in the world, it seems surprising that so little has been done to bring Lancashire and India together on this side in the seventy years since the cotton famine during the American Civil War. An official enquiry, the produce of the Ottawa conference, has now reported not unhelpfully on the possibilities. We should be in a much stronger position to claim India's preference for our cloth, if we went more to her for the raw material; and we should advantageously lessen our dependence on the United States. Lancashire is beginning to see the obvious truth and if tests now being carried out prove successful, important developments may be expected in the next two or three years, including perhaps the rather strange position that Japan should be conceded a moral right to a large share of India's trade.

NO TIP FOR WAITER?

When Mr. Grover Whalen of New York City, suggested the abolition of tips for waiters as the best way of agreeing on wage scales under the restaurant code, he touched on a reform which has been mooted at many times and in many places and is generally regarded as likely to appeal to both wage-earner and the public. Most waiters, it is argued, would prefer to work for a regular and adequate wage rather than depend on the generosity of the people they serve. Most diners, undoubtedly, would be glad to get away from the need of pouring out a steady stream of ten cent pieces. It seldom works out in that fashion however. The commonest procedure is a No Tipping order ignored by patrons who are well aware that tips are expected just the same.

THE IDEAL OF LIVING

By HUGH REDWOOD

"WE to-day," says Mr. Julian Huxley, "fall short of the ideal living, and fall short just as radically—relatively to our circumstances and the state of our civilisation—as did the early Jews relatively to theirs."

The truth of the statement is only too painfully evident. A week-end in the Rhonda and another week-end on Clydesdale, with an interposed spell in the North of England, have left me with no sort of doubt on that score.

They have brought me, however, moving proof that great numbers of the very people by whom the heaviest burdens of distress are being borne not only hold fast to the ideal, but are firm in their faith that, through all its troubles, mankind is moving towards it.

PROMISE OF PROGRESS.

Now these, in the main, are people who believe the Bible to be a unique revelation of the law and the purpose of God.

It is strange, then, that Mr. Huxley should seem to regard them, as loth to accept the idea of religious progress. They cannot help accepting it. They cling to it as their great hope.

The New Testament is a promise of progress, from the ideal of the Kingdom of God, received in men's hearts with the trust of children, to the realised state of perfection, when "that which is in part shall be done away" and man shall know his Creator as he is known by Him.

FORERUNNERS.

The Old Testament is a background against which these assurances shine with the greater glory.

Its historical portions show us how surely the way was prepared for Christ's coming: its prophetic chapters link up with the Christian Gospel, as applied to present-day problems.

Take a glance at some of the ancient prophecies, which so startlingly fit our times, and you will see reasons why men find the Bible a God-given spring when human resource has run dry.

At that astounding chapter of Haggai, for instance, which seems to have been written to the address of our economists. ("The silver is mine and the gold is mine, saith the Lord of hosts.") There, coupled with the warning of a world upheaval, is the promise that "the desire of all nations shall come."

At Joel, too, Isaiah foresaw a time when the nations should beat their swords into ploughshares; but Joel saw rearmament, when they should beat them back into swords again and there would be "multitudes, multitudes in the valley of decision." Yet he also saw, in the midst of it all, his God triumphant in new Jerusalem.

THE PERFECT REIGN OF LAW.

Progress is the essence of Bible teaching. Even the classic exponents of faith, we are told, have not achieved perfection. There is "Some better thing" ahead.

What is "the ideal of living," for which men pray and strive and endure?

We may, perhaps, define it as a new system in which a perfect law is perfectly obeyed; obeyed with the same exactitude as so-called "natural" laws, which govern alike the mightiest suns and the least of the atoms.

In such a system, existing evils can look for no footing. The clean slate for which the world craves will be a fact, and it will be clean in every respect, physical, moral and spiritual, which means that disease and death will be conquered and that the blight which has fallen upon us will be removed.

We can express the same thoughts in other and more familiar words:

Thy Kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, as it is in Heaven.

And I saw a new heaven and a new earth. And there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain. And there shall be no more curse.

Mr. Julian Huxley, one gathers, would agree that this is "magnificent literature." But it is not because it is literature that men, with God's help, are shaping the course of their lives by it.

They believe that the recorded language of Jesus Christ points to a Plan and to its final fulfilment, of which the words of the seer of Patmos are an inspired foreshadowing. And the more they study the Book which contains these things, the more certain it is that they will go on placing it "in an entirely different category from any other book."

This may be, to the Greeks, foolishness, and to the professional mind "simply superstition," but elsewhere in the same Book it is shrewdly observed that God has made wisdom look rather silly.

Certainly the world would be ill-served to-day by a "wisdom" which swept away, as fetish-worship, a belief that is helping to keep it out of the abyss.

THE WAY WITH CHILDREN.

Mr. Huxley would have us look on the Bible much as we look on the History of England. We may use it to illustrate the fact of past progress and to point the way of progress in the future. Indeed, to these ends, he is pleased to approve it as "an admirable instrument."

(A gratified flutter in Heaven would seem to be indicated.) But if it is to become "a fetish in the realm of ideas" (shall we say, like certain doctrines worshipped by scientists?), it is not fit, he says, for children to read.

I shall put it the other way. If the Bible is taught to our children by qualified spiritual teachers, they will be liberated from fetish-worship of all kinds.

They will not learn that the Bible is "the only avenue to their religious salvation"—to Christians, Christ is the only Way—but that, in God's careful ordering, it was given to them as a guide book, as a lamp to their feet and a light to their path.

They will know the truth that sets men free, and find the way of re-birth for the world as they work out their own salvation.

"I guess it's getting harder to shave me every week, isn't it, Mr. Berg?"

CHRISTMAS CARDS

By Eddie Raphael Tuck Kelly

CHRISTMAS and New Year cards should be abolished.

They are a menace.

Displayed on your mantelpiece for visitors to see, they are a guide to your position in Hongkong society. If you have only a couple from the ten cent box you are not of much account, but a row of privately printed cards gives you a cachet equal to that of being a Compradore.

For a long time we have been at a disadvantage in this respect. The envelopes we get at Christmas bearing three cent stamps do not contain best wishes. They are stuffed with offensive looking pieces of papers, with nasty figures printed on them. And when our friends show us theirs, arranged in rows in front of the clock, our blood boils until it makes our chilblains worse than ever.

However, we showed them something this Christmas. We have cards strewn around like the leaves on the Babes in the Wood. They are stuck into picture frames, they are on the mantelpiece and on the window-ledge. There are cards everywhere.

All of them are expensive, some costing as much as $1. Nor do they come from any Tom, Dick or Harry. There is one from His Excellency the Governor, and another from the Colonial Secretary.

No, we didn't send them to ourselves. It happened that last January we wanted a scrap book to stick our clippings in, and our local stationer had not got one. As this was the only place at the moment where our credit was good, he was anxious to please us, so he produced two large volumes, which he said we could have if we liked.

They happened to be the volumes full of sample Christmas cards from which you select the design you want for your own private use. We asked him if he wanted the cards back when we tore them from our book, and he said, no, we could give them to the cat to play with.

We admit that they bear the date "Christmas, 1932"—but we don't suppose our friends are so ill-bred as to notice that.

1934 BIRTHDAY GUIDE

JANUARY.—Persons born this month will succeed as they get on. Journeys not yet taken lie before them, and they will always be remembered by those who bear them in mind.

FEBRUARY AND MARCH.—Considerable change is indicated. This should be carefully counted, as mistakes cannot afterwards be rectified.

APRIL, MAY AND JUNE.—Hasty decisions should be arrived at quickly, but it would be prudent not to anticipate unexpected news.

JULY, AUGUST AND SEPTEMBER.—Persons born during this period start life at an early age. In love affairs care should be exercised wherever a need for caution exists.

OCTOBER, NOVEMBER AND DECEMBER.—Avoid conversations with strangers you do not know, and beware of answering unasked questions. Remember, every opportunity is a chance, and the sudden acquisition of wealth is apt to add to one's possessions.

Revised Version

A famous Hollywood actress was looking at a photograph and, referring to the person whose portrait it was, she said, "Sisters and Brothers have I none, but this man's father is my father's fourth wife's seventh husband's twice-divorced brother-in-law's third wife. Who was the person in the photograph?"

KOWLOON BUS COMPANY AGAIN FINED

FAILURE TO MAINTAIN BUS SCHEDULES

POSSIBLE INCREASE OF PENALTY WARNING

"You accepted a franchise to run a bus service in Kowloon, and you have to see that the service is maintained," said Mr. Wynne-Jones, at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, when the manager of the Kowloon Motor Bus Company was summoned for failing to keep to schedule on different routes on December 5 and 13.

William S.T. Louie was named as defendant in the summonses, but a representative answered on his behalf.

It was stated by Traffic Inspector Saunders that on December 5, the Assistant Director of Criminal Intelligence was waiting outside the Yau Ma Tei Police Station for a No. 12 bus for over half an hour between 9 and 9.30 a.m. During that period there should have been three buses.

At 5.45 a.m. on the same day, Warder Ashby got off the Star Ferry and had to wait until after 6 a.m. before he could get a bus to take him to Lanchow, with the result that he was late for duty.

His Worship:—What have you got to say?

NO ROOM IN GARAGE.

Defendant:—There was no room in our garage the night before; we had to keep our buses in Kowloon City. This was the cause of the delay.

His Worship:—You accepted a franchise to run a bus service in Kowloon and you have to see that the service is maintained. I am not concerned with whether you have room in your garage or not. You have to maintain the service.

One summons alleged that a bus was missing on the No. 8 Route at noon on December 13. Inspector Saunders said he was checking up the buses at the junction of Jordan Road and Nathan Road and from noon until 12.10 p.m. there was no bus on the No. 8 Route.

Another summons was that a bus was missing on the No. 13 Route at about the same time.

28 BUSES OUT OF ORDER.

Inspector Saunders added he visited the garage on the same day and found 28 buses out of order. Under those circumstances, the Company could not be expected to maintain their schedule.

His Worship:—How is the position now?

Inspector Saunders:—It is better now, your Worship. A fine of $15 was imposed in respect of each absent bus, the total fine on the two summonses being $90.

His Worship:—I'll increase the fine if the Company does not do something about it.

CLAIM DENIED.

JUDGE COMMENTS ON DEFENDANT'S EVIDENCE

"This is a bad case and defendant has in fact committed perjury," said the Peking Judge, Mr. R. E. Lindell, yesterday, when he made an order for immediate execution of a judgment in favour of Koh Yik-chun, of 15, Nam Kwai-fong Street, who claimed the sum of $500 on an acknowledgment dated March 1, 1933, signed by Slow Man-choy, alias S. Kenny, defendant. Mr. P. H. Sinn appeared for the plaintiff while Mr. H. G. Lowe represented the defendant.

Defendant in his evidence declared that he did not borrow a sum of $500 from the plaintiff on March 1 and that the signature on the acknowledgment was not his. Witness denied having signed any receipt but after interrogation by His Honour finally admitted that the signature on the receipt was his.

His Honour gave judgment for the plaintiff, with costs, and made an order for immediate execution.

CHEAP TELEPHONES.

SIR KINGSLEY WOOD'S NEW SERVICE ANNOUNCED

London, Dec. 28. Sir Kingsley Wood, Postmaster-General, in a broadcast speech last night, announced that a telephone service at cheaper rates is to be introduced next April for the benefit of the small user.

Under the new system a group of four to eight subscribers living close together will be connected. Absolute privacy is automatically secured for conversations as a result of a new apparatus designed by Post Office engineers and when one member of the group is using the line no other can overhear or interfere with his call.—British Wireless.

HOME RAILWAYS BOOMING

CHRISTMAS TRAFFIC INCREASES

London, Dec. 28. Traffic on British railways during the Christmas showed a further large increase.

Compared with the same week in 1932, the London, Midland and Scottish Railway receipts for passenger traffic rose by £42,000 and for goods by £44,000, while the London and North Eastern Railway showed corresponding gains of £27,000 and £28,000, the Southern Railway £20,000 and £3,000, and the Great Western Railway £13,000 and £18,000.

The improvement in the second half of 1933 has been constant and is expected to continue. Home railway stocks showed a firm tendency on the Stock Exchange to-day.—British Wireless.

OPIUM SEIZURE IN MANILA

BIG HAUL FROM EMPRESS OF CANADA

Manila, Dec. 27. Over 1,700 tacks of opium were seized by customs officials shortly after the Empress of Canada arrived in port.

The shipment, the largest intercepted for some considerable time, almost got through in two suitcases, carrying what appeared to be the O.K. of the customs. Suspicion was aroused by the initials, C.R., those of an official not on duty and the bags were opened and the contents revealed.

BRITISH TRADE IN CHINA

POSSIBILITY OF INCREASE

MR. LOUIS BEALE ON OUTLOOK

London, Dec. 28. The possibilities for increased trade between China and Great Britain and the need for greater contact between British manufacturing interests and Chinese business men are discussed in the report on trade and economic conditions in China 1931-33 by the British Commercial Counsellor at Shanghai, Mr. Louis Beale.

Mr. Beale emphasises that although the strength and wealth of China should rest on her agriculture, yet in 1932 twenty per cent. of her total imports were of wheat and rice, ten per cent. of sugar and other foodstuffs.

Meanwhile many of China's natural industries are declining and less of her many fine products are available or suitable for export.

At the same time, the report praises the sincerity of the Government in their plans for pacification and the reconstruction of the country.

FOUR-YEAR PLAN.

An example is given of the Four Year Industrial Plan for increasing production in staple goods, such as wheat, cotton, textiles and iron and steel.

The outstanding weakness of the financial position is the continued heavy default on railway obligations to foreign lenders and the rehabilitation of railway finances and operations is a prerequisite of progress.

CAPITAL GOODS.

Mr. Beale considers that the greatest market in China from now onward will consist of capital goods, including machinery and equipment, the opportunities for which ought to more than offset the probable loss to British trade in consumable goods.

The keynote of British participation in the development of China must be investments and co-operation with Chinese interests.

Both countries now realise that a share of control by the British interests concerned and the aid of British technicians is to the benefit of both.

creditors' representatives at a recent meeting in Berlin.

The Committee states they expected some respect would be paid to their observations and they cannot see what useful purpose was served by bringing representatives to Berlin merely to await a decision apparently predetermined by the Reichsbank.

British Securities.

Calculations of Stock Exchange securities by the Bankers' Magazine show that the value of 365 representative securities has risen in the past year from £6,079,760,000 to £6,632,632,000.—British Wireless.

TOKYO SURPRISE

NEW AMBASSADOR TO WASHINGTON

MR. HIROSHI SAITO APPOINTED

Tokyo, Dec. 27. Mr. Hiroshi Saito, Japanese Ambassador at The Hague, has been appointed Ambassador in Washington.

Some surprise has been caused by the official announcement. By this promotion to be Ambassador to the United States, one of the two blue ribbon assignments of the Japanese diplomatic service—the other being the London embassy—Mr. Saito has been passed over the heads of nearly a score of his seniors in the foreign service of the Mikado.

Just turned 47 this month, he is also the youngest man ever to hold the coveted Washington ambassadorship, although both Baron Shidehara and Mr. Matsudaira were only a few months past 47 when appointed to Washington in 1918 and 1924, respectively.

AMERICAN EXPERIENCE.

Probably because of five years' service as Japanese consul-general in New York from 1923 to 1928, Mr. Saito speaks English with hardly any accent and with an American, rather than a British, vocabulary.

It was his fluency in English, enabling him to meet American and British newspapermen and either banter or discuss serious international topics with them in their own language, that helped to make him one of the most successful press liaison officials the Japanese Foreign Office has ever had during his term as chief of the information bureau in Tokyo during 1929 and 1930.

NAVAL CONFERENCE.

Mr. Saito began his diplomatic career in 1910, shortly after his graduation from the law college of the Tokyo Imperial University, training school for most of the empire's diplomats, but it was 20 years later that he gained world prominence, as well as a big reputation among his own people, by the role he played in the London naval conference of 1930.

There his abilities as a linguist, his mastery of the subject matter of the conference and a winning personality made him one of the most valuable negotiators in the Japanese delegation, although he was not one of the plenipotentiaries. He was, however, the right hand of the chief delegate, Baron Wakatsuki, and proved especially useful in the difficult hotel-room negotiations.

SPELL AT THE HAGUE.

He obtained his first ministerial appointment early this year when appointed to the Hague.

Shortly after going to the capital of the Netherlands he negotiated a new treaty of arbitration, the first such instrument concluded by Japan with any other power following her resignation from the League of Nations.

This treaty, providing for submission of nearly all disputes to arbitration, is considered by Tokyo to be the model on which it hopes to pattern several other such compact with the West, in an effort to convince the Occident that Japan still wants to keep the peace in spite of her bellicose attitude of recent years and her withdrawal from the League.

CAR DRIVER TO BE ARRESTED

FAILURE TO ANSWER SUMMONS

An incident at West Point, in which two public cars were involved in a slight collision, had a sequel before Mr. Hamilton, at the Central Magistracy this morning, when Kwok Wei, the driver of No. 419, and Un-tin-cheung, the driver of No. 231, were summoned for negligent driving.

The first defendant was not present in Court, and after taking the evidence of the constable who served the summons, Mr. Hamilton issued a warrant for his arrest. Defendant was also summoned for not parking at an appropriate stand.

Sergeant Hayward, giving evidence against the second defendant, said on December 2, there were about ten public cars in Queen's Road West, near Hill Road. On his approach they all drove away. About five minutes later, thinking he had gone, they began returning. Car No. 231 came from the direction of Hill Road and turned into Queen's Road West, and was backing when it was struck from behind by car No. 419, which was backing in the opposite direction. They were apparently trying to get to their original parking places. The rear bumper and mudguard of No. 231 were damaged, while the mudguard of No. 419 was slightly damaged.

Defendant denied driving negligently, but said he was stationary, and that the other car had struck him.

Mr. Hamilton decided to convict. Defendant admitted eight previous convictions, and the suspension of his licence for three months.

Mr. Hamilton warned him that if he came up again, his licence would be suspended for a year. He now fined him $20.

OTHER CASES.

Wong Ping-shang, the driver of lorry No. 4148, summoned for dangerous driving in Hennessy Road, was fined $30.

Evidence was given by Sergeant Clarke who said defendant was doing 25 miles an hour.

Leung Hing-chung, the driver of lorry No. 2015, was summoned for having carried an excess load of three tons.

Mr. Hamilton said that owing to defendant's good record he would only impose a fine of $25, although he was liable to a fine of $38.

Kwok Tung, the driver of lorry No. 345, was fined $30 for having carried an excess load of three tons.

IS PUBLIC PREFERENCE

When car-owners have a preference they stand up and proclaim it. When they find what they want they rise in a body and go get it.

There's no mistaking the genuineness of the general enthusiasm for the handsome big CHEVROLET SIX.

A leader in sales in four of the last six years still heading the list this year, never before has such emphatic public acceptance been registered for any single model of any make of car.

You will be proud to own such a popular car and it is not beyond the means of anyone who can afford to buy a car to buy a CHEVROLET.

ENGLISH FLAT RACING SEASON REVIEWED

SOME INTERESTING NOTES ABOUT LEADING OWNERS, HORSES, TRAINERS & JOCKEYS

Below will be found an absorbing review of the English Flat Racing season which recently concluded. It appeared in a recent issue of the Sunday Sportsman, and contains several matters of interest to race-goers.

Once again, the "Cousin Firo" at Manchester has sounded the knell of yet another racing season, but it has to be confessed that it was a cheerful sort of knell, for the sinking sun gave every prospect of a radiant dawn. Though wild as the poles asunder, it is indubitable that commerce and racing reflect one another. If things are going badly in the world of business then we must expect that racing and breeding will be more or less in the doldrums, but when the sun of prosperity shines on commerce then racing, industry and undertakings flourish and expand in the reflected warmth. Even the most hardened pessimist can but admit that racing and breeding have looked up very considerably in the past few months, thanks to the fact that British racing now stands as high as ever it did and British trade is advancing with sonorous step along the road to prosperity.

There is now actually talk of a reduction of 1s. in the Income Tax, and should this talk be translated into action then we may confidently anticipate that racing and breeding will share in the "boom" which must inevitably follow this much-wished-for concession.

But even if these hopes of a cut are not realised, or if they are only partially realised, we venture to assert that racing and breeding will share in the "boom" which must inevitably follow this much-wished-for concession.

NEW PONIES SHOW UP PROMISINGLY

DAILY WORK BEING DONE BY DERBY SUBSCRIPTION GRIFFINS AND AUSTRALIAN ANIMALS

(By "Capt. Foster")

The past week has been most interesting and I was very much impressed with quite a number of gallops. The course is full of activity these mornings, and one is kept fully occupied watching each gallop—singly or in pairs—as the ponies come sweeping down the straight, at intervals of fifteen seconds or less, during the busiest hour of the morning between 6-45 and 7-45 o'clock.

DERBY GRIFFINS

Some Impressive Performances

Messrs. Hall & Shenton's The Red Shank had a spin last Wednesday week (20/12/33) over three-quarters of a mile, and my watch registered a total time of 1-49 2/5. On Friday morning (22/12/33) with Mr. Frost in the saddle, he covered the mile in a shade under 2-16 so I am told. I was only able to "chime" his last three-quarters and I made the time 1-42, separate quarters being 33 3/5, 34 2/5, 34. A very fine performance indeed considering that the animal has not been down very long. I saw him finishing a quarter last Wednesday morning, and he was moving in good style.

Mr. Dunbar's griffins are doing faster work these days and of his lot I rather fancy his Bay with a White Blaze. Last Wednesday week (20/12/33) this pony in company with a grey covered the last three-quarters in 1-44 4/5, taking 31 4/5 for the last quarter. Last Friday morning (22/12/33) all his three griffins covered a mile and a quarter in about 3-05, covering home full of running in 31 seconds. Mr. Dunbar's string of griffins have not been idle, and they were all asked to show some form. His kept-over grey stallion negotiated a mile and a quarter in 2-54, last 1/2 in 1-03, last 1/4 in 31 3/5. The last mile was done in 2-14, a rattling good gallop. His grey mare (a very breezy looking animal) could not maintain the pace, and fell away about 100 yards from the winning post, beaten by about 3 lengths.

This gallop should bring her on a good deal and I fully expect her to put up a good performance when she is again asked to show her paces. His Darling, Frank Butters, Joe Lawson, Captain Boyd-Rochford, and Jack Jarvis. This year Fred Darling heads the list, turning the tables on Frank Butters, to whom he was second last year. Darling found some bitter mixed with his sweets, a notable case being that of Manikola, who was assessed by Mr. Fawcett as the best two-year-old colt of 1932, but whose displays in the classic races this year were deplorable.

BRILLIANT MYROBELLA. Classic honours proved beyond the grasp of Myrobel, who plainly showed in the One Thousand that she doesn't get much further than a furlong. Over this latter distance and over a furlong less, however, she showed all her old dazzling speed. She is, we understand, to be kept in training for another season. Darling trains a useful lot of two-year-olds, and they should do the Bechampton stable credit next year.

Mr. Lawson, who covers his connection with Stanley House on the last day of the present year, occupies third place, while Captain Boyd-Rochford keeps Joe Lawson out of fourth position.

That splendid veteran, Matt Pencock, is, of course, the effulgent star of the North, and has won close on eighty races worth just over £17,000. This is an admirable performance, though it ranks behind the veteran's achievements in 1931, when he won ninety-eight races worth £22,803, and in 1932, when he performed the remarkable feat of winning a hundred races worth £30,742.

THE JOCKEYS. As for the jockeys, what can be said save that it was a case of Richards first and the rest howsoever? Richards will again be riding first jockey for Bechampton next season, and we see no reason why he should not retain his supremacy for some years yet, as he is never likely to become really heavy. "Rufus" Beasley and Caralake both show excellent averages, and Steve Donoghue, Nevett, Fox, Weston, Perrynian, Johnnie Dines, and Ray of the same well. Though a veteran, Donoghue retains all his old skill, and his ride on Colombo at Kempton was a masterpiece.

Of the apprentices, E. Smith has done best, and it seems quite safe to prophesy a brilliant career for this lad if he keeps a level head.

QUALITY TOO?

Messrs. Kong Bros' griffins are still confined to slow work. The stable, I gather, shelters some good griffins but I like his big Bay the best of all.

Messrs. Li and Li's have quantity but I am uncertain as to quality. I consider Soldier of Britain and Soldier of China are his two best griffins. The former certainly scores on looks but the latter is, I hear, Classed A 1 at Lloyds. Soldier of China is a new comer to the course and I have not yet seen him show his paces. Soldier of Britain moves very impressively but he has done no fast work. Last Wednesday week (20/12/33) he covered the last three-quarters of a mile in 1-54, last half mile in 1-08 and last quarter in 30 seconds. Last Wednesday morning (27/12/33) I saw him finishing, and he was striding out like a good 'un.

Mr. Hem's griffins are doing slow cantering work and they all (especially the three stallions) look capable of winning races. Budge, in this stable, but the property of Mr. C. B. Brown, impresses me as being a griffin of class and a very taking mover.

Messrs. Mackie and Grayburn's griffins are also doing faster work. Of their three, the chestnut (Garry by name) is my pick. Last Friday Garry beat his stable companion Ribble in a mile and a quarter gallop. The total time was 3-03, last half mile in 1-08, last quarter in 31.

Messrs. Samson's kept over griffins do not impress me one little bit. Naughty Face and Lucky Face are reputed to be good ponies but so far they do not fill "mine eyes". The same may be said about Mr. Ho Kom Tong's latest purchase—a dun griffin—I like his Bay, with a White Blaze, and his grey mare, both ponies with nice actions. I also like his Ron.

Mr. Soares kept over Prima Donna is a grand looking mare. She is reputed to be good but somehow I feel her action is not as free as it might be. Last Friday morning she cantered one and a half miles in 3-39, last half mile in 1-07, last quarter in 31, going very easily. His Fra Diavolo does not appeal to me.

SUBS. GRIFFINS

Extracts From My Note-Book

Jottings from my Note Book reveal that Mr. H.S.Y.'s Chesterfield (No. 30) is coming on nicely, and that he is a pony that will repay any interest one may take in his work.

Messrs. Li Lan Sang and Yue Shun Wa's The Carp (No. 58) on Friday last galloped a mile in 43-1-22-1-55 2/5-2-28 4/5, and last Wednesday morning he went a similar distance in 41-1-19-1-52 3/5-2-20 3/5. He moves nicely.

Messrs. Sturt and Lobel's Sarabande (No. 133) appears to enjoy his work. His is a shapely animal and on looks ought to be able to gallop. Mrs. Lewis's St. Ives (No. 40) appeals to me more and more after each gallop, and I feel sure that he is a certain winner at the annual Meeting.

I was most impressed with his recent canter of a mile and three-quarters (accompanied by Brann Tub (No. 39), the property of Mr. Suren). I timed his last three quarters in 37 2/5-1-18 3/5, 1-40 last quarter in 32 2/5, and he finished strongly. He certainly had the legs of Brann Tub on that occasion.

Mr. Li Fuk Wing's Utopian (No. 48) appeared to me to be a game pony as he did not lose his style when covering three quarters in 1-44 2/5, last half mile in 1-08 2/5, last quarter in 34 2/5.

ENCOURAGING WORK.

Bird of Paradise (No. 43) and In Good Time (No. 110) owned by Mr. Li Po Chun showed up well—especially the former—in a spin of a mile and a quarter in 42-1-21-2-02-2-38-3-10.

Mr. Chiu Fan Fan's Little Beauty (No. 121) is a nice mover and will repay watching. So far he has been confined to slow cantering work. Mr. Leong Kwok Cheung's Cavalcade (No. 53) is another animal I fancy. I was impressed with his three quarter mile "pov" in 38-1-12 2/5-1-44 2/5.

Mr. Dynasty's King Willow (No. 59) improves with each outing and I like him.

Mr. Ho Kom Tong's Classic Hall (No. 32) has so far put up the best three quarter mile gallop. 33 1/5-1-08-1-40 2/5.

THE AUSTRALIANS

Governor's Pony Runs Well

His Excellency The Governor's Nell Gwyn on Wednesday morning last covered the mile in 33 3/5-1-05-1-35 3/5-2-05. On Friday last she cantered one and three quarters miles in 42-1-25-2-05-2-45-3-24-3-59 and on the Wednesday before that (20/12/33) she went an easy mile and a quarter in 36-1-09-1-45-2-18-2-47 3/5.

Miss Shenton's Fanling Fox did two gallops of a mile last week namely:—

On Wednesday 31 1-06 1-37 2-06 2/5
On Friday 33 1-03 1-33 3/5 2-02 1/5

Messrs. Hall & Shenton's The Goose on the 20/12/33 covered the mile in 35-1-10-1-40 2/5-2-07 3/5 and on the 22/12/33 a mile and a quarter in 36-1-07-1-42-2-14-2-44 3/5.

I was only able to clock Mrs. Dunbar's Princess Angeline for three quarters of a mile, viz.:—34-1-05-1-35, going very strongly at the finish. I liked her very much.

Mr. Lewis' Captain Cook went very nicely when he covered three quarters of a mile in 30-1-00-1-30 3/5, a very level gallop, and Mrs. Lewis' St. Joan also impressed me very much when she negotiated a similar distance in 33-1-04-1-32.

AN OUTSTANDING GALLOP.

Mr. Dynasty's Friday showed up well in a mile and a quarter gallop in 2-37, last three quarters in 1-29—last half in 58, last quarter in 29, a very fine performance for a first gallop. Mrs. Stanton's Dinty put up an impressive mile in 1-58, last three quarters in 1-29 3/5, last half in 1-00 1/5—last quarter in 29 1/5, but the first part of the gallop was the more impressive, first three quarters in 1-28 4/5, first half in 57 4/5, first quarter in 28 2/5. I wonder whether this denotes "short distance" or whether—being somewhat of a puller—the Boy was unable to hold him?

But undoubtedly the outstanding gallop was that of General Lam's Atlas last Saturday. In company with—I think—Australian Boy he cantered one and a half miles slowly, but from the five furlong post they came with a good gallop, the last half mile being done in 25-27 (total time 62 seconds) and Atlas was held back to Australian Boy. Had he been allowed to stride along by himself I feel he could easily have done under 50 seconds. He is a fine, big, impressive animal with plenty of substance, and a grand mover.

SUNDAY'S RACES AT FANLING

ATTRACTIVE PROGRAMME TO OPEN OVER-STICKS SEASON

LARGE ATTENDANCE AND GOOD SPORT PROMISED

(By "Capt. Foster")

The first Meeting of the 1933/1934 Fanling Hunt and Race Club Season will be held on Sunday next and, given fine weather, a large attendance will no doubt be at Quant, as the programme is a very attractive one. The Card consists of five events, with good entries for each race, and good racing is anticipated.

The curtain rises at 2-30 p.m. prompt with the

MACHINE GUN TROOP HURDLE.

Mouche, the property of Captain Potts, Officer Commanding Machine Gun Troop, is decidedly my first choice for this event, and I fancy White Stars and Peter Davey will fill second and third places.

NEW YEAR'S EVE HURDLE.

A field of twelve will most probably face the starter here. On form Festival Eve has this race safe in his keeping, and Burgomaster and The Gadwall should follow him home.

TAI PO STEEPLECHASE.

I hear most favourable reports of No Fear and I am sure he will do well at the jumping game, but as this is his first attempt over sticks I cannot give him second place. I cannot see him beating Marquis Hall who I predict will win easily. The ever-green Duke of Milan is going well but, in this instance, I fear he will have to be content with third place.

TALLY HO HURDLE.

Mr. Johnnie Hope should have a comfortable winning ride on Dunc as I cannot possibly see any of the other entrants making him gallop unless it is the Crook. This pony is a new comer from the North, and he may be quite capable of upsetting the apple-cart. The Curlew will I think be good enough for a place.

ST. JOHN'S CUP (UNOFFICIAL).

This is undoubtedly the race of the day, and it will attract a large field. In a race of this nature, a little "joss" is required, or rather I should say "bad luck" is decidedly "taboo" for one to be concerned with the finish. Given good running and without interference, I can only see three ponies with equal chances of winning, and they are Winchester Stag, Tom Cobley and Wisdom Stag. The first two named ponies are well known and Winchester Stag has up to now proved himself to be the best cross-country pony at Fanling. I am safely first past the post, but I can see him being very hard pressed by Tom Cobley and Wisdom Stag. The latter is a new comer at the game but Mr. Bill Stanton is a "thruster" of the first order and a hard man to beat. His experience will be of real help to his pony and I will not be at all surprised to see him emerging triumphant at the finish.

Since writing the foregoing I hear that Winchester Stag will not be a starter. Either Jan Stower or Bay of Calamity has a very good chance for third place.

Unsuccessful Pony Auction Sale

CHEAP BARGAINS FOR BUYERS

(By "Captain Foster")

The Auction last Thursday week reminded me of the days prior to 1927 when, at the yearly Sales subsequent to the Annual Race Meetings, ponies were literally given away.

Owners came in for a bad time at the last sales; purchasers had matters all their own way and several bargains were picked up, notably City of Brisbane, Sticky-past and The Goat. These three ponies, in my opinion, were practically given away and I think their new Owners will in time come to realize how fortunate they have been in securing them at ridiculously low prices.

Needless to say quite 95% of the ponies that were put up with a "reserve" were withdrawn, the bids being far below the figures placed for them.

EXPERIMENT FAILS.

Either as an experiment, or owing to adverse circumstances, a number of Derby Griffins were included in the Sale and the Dealers must have been most disappointed with the result.

Two or three of them were withdrawn but Mr. Tang secured a very stylish Brown mare for $480, the original price asked by the Dealer, I understand, being in the vicinity of $3,000. Time will tell whether or not Mr. Tang has secured a bargain, but

(By "Veritas").

Depressing conditions spoilt both the attendance and the football at yesterday's charity match at Sookunpoo between the Army and Navy. Nevertheless, in spite of the driving rain (I imagine it fell heavier at Sookunpoo than in the City), the event was carried through according to schedule, and those who braved the elements to fill the stand were rewarded with an interesting game of football.

It was hoped that this match would act as a curtain-raiser to the Navy's Lai Wah engagement to-morrow, but unhappily they had to field a depleted team, and it is therefore hardly fair to draw comparisons or conclusions. The result—a draw of two goals each—was entirely fitting. Albeit the Army had to make a smart recovery to save the game, for the Navy were two up at one stage.

Apart from the introduction of Mullane for Allen, the Army turned out as advertised, but the Navy were forced to effect changes. Pepper coming in for Liddington in goal, Blair taking McGuire's place at centre-half and Fairless deputising for Hudspeth on the right wing.

The effect the overcast and ground conditions had on the players was an illuminating example of the drawback of Hongkong's usually flat football weather. Players become so accustomed to hard grounds, that immediately the surface is dampened, they are comparatively helpless.

The most noticeable defect on both sides yesterday was lack of ball control and of adaptability to the conditions.

The sliding tackle, almost essential on such a ground, was completely ignored, and as quick turning and recovery were rendered difficult, defenders were constantly being beaten for possession.

It was surprising that no more than four goals were scored. The opportunities were there, but care-corner kicks, in view of the state of the ball, were astonishingly fine.

Ridley was steady throughout but he made the one big mistake of trying to keep the ball close, when conditions demanded that it should be swung about. Harris of the Borderers, committed the same fault, and McQuade was little better in this respect. Had the Army wingers been kept supplied with long forward passes, they would, I am convinced, have won. The short inter-passing in the centre of the field was invariably nipped in the bud by the watchful James and West.

Cork played a brainy game at centre-half, and he is, in my respects one of the most polished players in local football. He had Langmead and Smith fairly bottled up, but was little less successful against the wily Barnett, who was the best forward on the field, though badly supported.

SMITH DISAPPOINTS. Mullane performed extraordinarily well, especially when it is taken into consideration that he had to look after the best Navy wing. It must also be taken into consideration that Dudley helped him with some good, hard spoiling work.

Morrison and Podmore completed the subjugation of the right wing. Incidentally this was the poorest display I have seen Smith give this season, and Fairless is not quite in the same class as Hudspeth.

Apart from Barnett who was always attractive when possessing the ball, the Navy forwards did

WEEK-END SOCCER.

Mr. G. T. May, Hon. Secretary of the Hongkong Football Association notifies that the Lincolns will play the East Lancs in a first division match on the Kowloon Football Club ground to-morrow, kick-off at 4 p.m.

For the Children's Play-ground match on Monday, the Hon. Sir Thos. Southorn, K.B.E., C.M.G., will kick off at 3.30 p.m. on the Club ground.

LADIES' GOLF.

Championship Commences In January Next.

In the Happy Valley Knock-out competition of the Ladies' Section of the Royal Hongkong Golf Club, Mrs. Lissaman beat Mrs. Leigh Garner by three up and two to play.

CHAMPIONSHIP DRAW.

The draw has been made for the Championship as follows:

First Round:—Mrs. J. B. Ross v. Mrs. Sherry;

Second Round:—Mrs. Whyte Smith v. Mrs. Lissaman; Mrs. Mackie v. Mrs. MacBrayne; Mrs. Tottenham v. Mrs. Shewan; Mrs. Stevenson.

The first round match is to be played by January 15; the second round matches by January 26, the third round by February 9, the fourth round by February 23 and the final by March 19.

BOGEY COMPETITION.

A Bogey Competition will be held on the New Course at Fanling on January 30.

"ROSE CUP"

Entries are invited for the "Mrs. S. B. C. Ross Cup" which is open to all members of the Ladies' Section. The cup is not to be won outright but to remain in the possession of the winner for one year. The competition will be over match play over the New Course at Fanling. Entries will close on January 8, 1934. Lists are posted in the Club Houses at Fanling and Happy Valley.

In from Skinner's centre, and he increased the margin to two goals after the change over by walking Fairless's centre into the net.

The Army replied through Mathias who cut in and beat Pepper from close range, whilst before the end Ridley broke the side of the net when he passed the goalkeeper with a rasping ground shot from a difficult angle.

An entertaining diversion was created before the start of the match by a musical programme given by a massed Marines band, who at half-time smartly carried out formation marching on the ground.

Admiral Sir Frederic Dreyer kicked off after being presented to the teams. Capt. Hague efficiently refereed the match.

WHERE SHOULD THE UMPIRE STAND?

TRIANGULAR GAMES DISCUSSED IN DETAIL

YESTERDAY'S ASTONISHING EXHIBITION

(By R. Abbit)

There has been a great deal of very enjoyable cricket played over the Christmas holidays and the game may now be said to have got fairly off the mark after the invariable dislocation caused by the Interport Matches. I have already dealt with the most important game, between the Army and the Club. This is the first of the Triangular Tournament. The Kowloon Cricket Club has developed enormously in recent years and they have hit on the happy idea of playing the Service side which was not out at the H.K.C.C. Ground. To-morrow and on Sunday they take on the Army—their ground is busy with the Children's Sports on New Year's Day—while on Boxing Day they played the Navy.

K.C.C. v. NAVY.

The Kowloon side was not entirely at full strength as Willie Hung, Jex, and Lewis were not playing, but they included Major Bonavia who had been left out of the Army team. Kowloon batted first and, after Teddy Fincher had been sent back early, a fine stand ensued between Ernie Fincher and Stapleton. The latter, as usual, started slowly but he bricked up later on and had seven boundaries in his innings of fifty-one. Fincher played very nice cricket and made seventy-eight, including eleven fours, before being caught out by A. B. Large, who bowled very steadily and well. His final figures were 21-6-67-4, which in a total of two hundred and nine for six were pretty good. Richards (18-4-50-2) also bowled steadily though not so successfully. None of the other bowlers met with success.

Bonavia at the end of the innings played free cricket for thirty-four not out in which were five fours. Fincher then made a very sporting declaration giving the Navy fair time in which to get the runs.

A RACE FOR RUNS.

The Navy went for the runs and most of them got a few, though Stevenson, who was perhaps unlucky to lose the decision in the matter of a stumping, Penfield, and Cheyne did not come off. But, with five down for a hundred and three, Larkin, who was hitting hard, took charge and over forty were added for the sixth wicket when Brownie came up long enough to run were hit off without further loss. I am told the K.C.C. have to blame themselves as they dropped Larkin (no, I cannot write it) times. But he had eleven boundaries in his seventy-six not out. Brownie also scored six, a five and a four, and he had a six, a five and a four in his forty-one not out. All agree in saying it was a most interesting match and from the teams playing I know it was a most sporting one. I wish some of these clever scientists could teach me how to be in two places in one time.

A CURIOUS POINT.

I believe it was during the play of this match that a curious (though definitely not controversial) point arose as to the position where the umpire shall stand. Apparently a bowler was bowling left arm round very close to the wicket, with a straight run up to the wicket. The umpire was standing in the middle of the pitch, and the bowler's end. There is, mark you no question of a left hander with a circular run popping out from behind the bowler and delivering the ball before the batsman can really see him). For some reason or other which I cannot give, explanation as it seems very absurd to me—the umpire stated afterwards that the umpire was somewhat obscuring his view and he enquired if he could have asked the umpire to stand further back. There is of course always the right to ask an umpire to move. The umpire, however, rather than instruct the bowler to move, said "An umpire should stand where his decision may be required." This, during the delivery of the ball, with the probable appeals for l.b.w. or catch at the wicket is always interpreted as a position in line with the stumps. But most umpires stand a yard or two behind the bowler's wicket. If a left hand round-the-wicket bowler is starting his run to the one side of, or behind, the umpire, it is the usual custom for the umpire, if necessary to retire a yard or so, and to direct the bowler to run between him and the wicket. This is justified by the rule that says that Umpires are sole judges of fair or unfair play. It is obviously not in the spirit of cricket to hide behind the umpire until just before popping out and throwing one down. I must admit I have never heard of an umpire standing so close to the wicket on any other grounds. When I used to be a bowler—right hand over—I often asked an umpire to stand back from the stumps, especially if I figured reasonably well. But I cannot quite grasp this new point. The facts are that anyone may—politely—request a favour of the umpire but standing where he can clearly see that upon which he has to adjudicate. As an example, you often see the bowler's umpire move round square with the popping crease when it seems likely an appeal for a run out may result.

And, being upon the subject of umpires, I would like to quote twice. Once from the laws—"The decision 'Out' shall be signalled by raising the index finger above the head."

Once from Rudgwick—"But here it says of those who point—"Their manners must be out of joint—"You may not point—"You must not point—"It's manners out of joint, to point!"

THE C.C.C. MATCH.

But to resume (it took me an hour to get my nose out of the third series of Gilbert and Sullivan and what the man next door will say to my imperfect recollections of the tunes I don't know—yet!) the Craven-grove Club held their usual married and single match. It is barely possible that what this game lacks in the finer points of cricket it makes up in bonhomie (Oh, spell it as you like!). I was glad to see that the Married Club kept their ends up long enough to defeat the Bachelors, though the latter included F. K. Robert, and Tinker Lee besides the two Zimmermans. But it was tough and go after the first two wickets, and they very nearly touched!

THE NAVY AND ARMY MATCH.

After last week-end games comes the Navy and Army match on Wednesday and yesterday. I am writing these notes on Wednesday night, at present, and it occurs to me that it would be interesting for my readers if I set down now some account of today's play—and my views before I have time to be wise after the event to-morrow. The Army won the toss and batted on an easy wicket. Rain, until just before play made the wicket slow and easy, while the Navy bowlers found it hard to control a wet ball. Garthwaite and Mitchell found going good and put up fifty-eight for the first wicket when Marsham had the latter caught by Larkin for twenty-five. J. F. Williams succeeded and began to dig himself in. About a quarter past twelve all looked set for another good stand when Garthwaite, in playing back to Eaden, had the misfortune to play one so hard on to his foot that it shot back into his wicket (65-2-36). The other Williams—Peter of that ilk—came in and made things lively. He hooked Marsham very nicely but next over played an amazingly bad shot which put the ball up in the air. It was the wicket-keeper's catch but he was unprepared for a moment and the ball dropped harmlessly to the ground. Thereafter the Army skipper hit freely—most of his runs coming from a nice hook shot in which he goes quickly right across his wicket—almost outside the off-stump I should think. Usually it was a four, but if he did not work out right he was in position to stop the ball with a dead bat. He rattled up thirty-six with seven fours in it, but I think that as usual he was suffering from a trifle of over confidence. With the score at a hundred and nine, Brownie bowled him a much faster one, short of a length, which turned in very quickly and took the top of the off peg, before the batsman, who had gone across to cut, could cover up or play the ball. (100-3-36). In the few remaining minutes before lunch the Army managed to lose Colledge and Butler for only two more runs.

DIRTY WEATHER.

The start was delayed as there was a drizzle and the wicket was easy and the ball wet. There is no excuse for their collapse, therefore, Cragg and Waring went with only nine added. Taylor hung on while twenty odd runs were put on for the eighth wicket (146-8-37), and Dewey kept an end up. Unfortunately, at a hundred and fifty-five, J. F. Williams, who had batted very solidly since the fall of the first wicket for twenty-seven, tried a short one and a good bit of holding by Cheyne had him run out—a close thing. The last wicket added twelve.

THE NAVY BAT.

It seems that the wicket if difficult at all, was only so for about twenty minutes before lunch when it was drying. Rain after lunch made it easier and the Navy were in a good

WELL HIT GIRLS!

This is what happened in the Army v Navy Triangular Tournament cricket match yesterday under fantastic conditions:

513 runs were scored in 4½ hours play. Batmen averaged over two runs a minute during the day.

After losing 4 wickets for 24 runs with and innings defeat starting them in the face, the Army declared at 230 for 9 leaving the Navy an hour in which to score 59 to win.

The whole match produced 795 runs for 31 wickets, an average of over 25 runs per wicket. It reads like a Sheffield Shield match!

position. Marsham was early out to Elvin, but, owing no doubt to the wet ball, the left-hander failed to find a length and after six overs the Army Captain took him off for good.

Garthwaite got one past Alexander Sinclair at just over twenty, but there the Army success ended. Carver and Carver sent the hundred up, and then some, before stumps were drawn.

The overnight position thus seemed favourable to the Navy's getting a small lead unless a bright sun turned the wicket into a glue pot. Anyway the honours of the day went to them.

THURSDAY'S PLAY.

Writing now on Thursday I can say very definitely that there was not any sun but a heavily drizzle and the wicket proved easy. The Navy took full advantage of it. Larkin was most unlucky to miss his century by a run. Carver, who by the way was only twelfth man, made a very good sixty-two and Eaden and Penfield got a few. But the later Larkin went to Holland Martin, who hit like a kicking horse and got seventy before the innings closed for three hundred and nine runs. Admitting that the Army bowlers were handicapped by a greasy ball it was a good bit of work. As he is a most excellent wicket-keeper it is cruel hard lines on the Navy that he cannot play against the Club but I understand Tarrantula snails on Saturday.

The position after lunch was that the Army wanted a hundred and forty-two runs to save the innings defeat. The wicket seemed easy and a raw cold drizzle did not make it any the nicer for the holders and bowlers. In fact a slippery ball later was almost certain. Richards and Large started very accurately and each took an early wicket as the former bowled J. F. Williams while Large disposed of Taylor—both for ducks. 6-2-0 did not look promising. Then just as Colledge and Mitchell were like stopping the rot the latter was brilliantly caught at the wicket on the leg side off one from Large which he tried to glance. 10-3-8. Garthwaite hit a couple of nice fours and Colledge and Brownie went on for the Army. Richards. In his first over Colledge hit a bad one put it up to deep square leg. 24-4-71.

Peter Williams and Garthwaite then came together and they knew it was a case of after them, the deluge. They played very free cricket but Williams was less over-confident than usual. Their running between the wickets was an education to watch. Gradually they established a superiority and ten followed ten. Williams had a straight drive which pitched on the screen, two fours to long leg and a late cut all off successful balls, and next over straight drove Marsham out of the ground. Just after the hundred was hoisted, five runs later however a disaster befell the Army as Garthwaite got his leg in front of a straight one. He had made a very pretty thirty-one.

INNINGS DEFEAT SAVED.

Waring held up an end well and got thirteen before he was very well caught low down at second slip 140-6-13. A couple of maidens—none of which Large nearly had—Williams, followed and then with a two and a four Butler saved the innings defeat. Next over Williams should have been stumped off Large but the mistake was not expensive as Brownie bowled him off stump with one that completely best him. The Army skipper had played a brilliant innings though he had lately been very quiet. I gather his recent injury and the consequent strapping across his face does not help his seeing the ball and his eyes tired. (148-7-75). Cragg and Butler began to get runs fairly fast, and it was evident the bowlers were having great difficulty in holding the greasy ball. It had been drizzling steadily for more than an hour. At last Large who had been bowling excellently got Butler's middle ball 176-8-10. Conditions got worse and Cragg and Dewey took full advantage of them hitting very stoutly but the bowlers were terrible handicapped while the fieldsmen could hardly see the ball. At two hundred and seventeen a brilliant one handed catch at mid-off sent back Cragg for a hard hit thirty. Several runs were added and then the Army declared at 230 for 9 leaving the Navy an hour in which to score 59 to win. As it was after half past four, and it had been arranged to stop at five-fifteen.

A DESPERATE FINISH.

With eighty-nine to get in forty minutes the Navy sent in Holland Martin and Larkin. Conditions were absurd. From the pavilion one could hardly see the ball at all and the Army bowlers could neither stand nor hold the ball while they and the batsmen did not know where the ball went. Holland Martin was l.b.w. to Garthwaite. Then all one could see was that two long white figures beat desperately with their bats and then rushed up and down the slip-marsh— I mean wicket. It was splendid hitting but frankly rather farcical the

QUARTER DECK WIN RETURN MATCH

Kent Daymen Rather Unlucky

Despite the weather, the Daymen of the Kent played the Quarter Deck of the Kent in a return football match yesterday afternoon on the Dockyard ground and lost by three goals to one. The Quarter Deck were much better represented this time and had four of the Ship's players.

The Quarter Deck started the attack and soon opened the scoring through Flindall, who headed in from a corner. Nothing could stop Flindall, who again broke through to find the net. For the rest of the first half, the play was mostly in the Daymen's half, Holden continually being called upon to save.

The first half closed with the Quarter Deck leading two nil. The second half saw the Daymen come into their own, and it was only sheer misfortune which prevented them from scoring. They had the majority of the play, yet the only time the Quarter Deck approached their goal, the defence was pierced.

Spunt, however, managed to break through before the final whistle to score the loser's only goal.

VETERAN WINS AGAIN

FLOTILLA LEAGUE POINTS

H.M.S. Veteran followed up their China Fleet Football League victory of Wednesday, with a win in the Flotilla League yesterday, when they garnered two points at the expense of H.M.S. Whitbait by two goals to nil.

The game was evenly contested, the winners netting goal in each half. Flint put them ahead before the interval, and Rimor placed the issue beyond doubt in the concluding stages.

In a one-day match played here, the Marylebone tourists easily defeated an Anglo-Indian and Indian team by eight wickets.

The home eleven scored only 128 runs in their innings and the M.C.C. required a short time only to knock up the necessary total. They scored 125 for the loss of two wickets.

very sporting. They got the runs with a few minutes to spare. Just before the end Carver was stumped for thirty. Larkin must have made about forty but I did not manage to see the score book. By the way something should be done about the scoring. A side should provide a scorer who knows his own team, by sight and can score.

REVIEW.

Space forbids a long review. The Navy thoroughly deserved their win. They were a much better balanced batting side and I confess I had no idea they were so good. It remains to be seen how they will shape against the Club. I gather Suther comes in for Holland Martin and that Carver is not picked. After all he only got ninety two runs in the two innings. As a matter of fact I presume some one will stand down for him. Stevenson will come in as skipper, I take it, unless he is too busy singing that old song, "I want to be an Eagle, Mummy, and with the Eagles fly." But in passing, I thought Brownie handled his team very well indeed.

COMING GAMES.

Against the Navy the Club have two changes, G. R. Sayer and T. L. Redmond coming in for Hayward and Divett. I sincerely hope the weather will be better than it has been. I have no information about the K.C.C. and Army game to sides. I mean, University play C.S.C.C. to the latter can raise a side and I suppose the I.R.C. match which they have in their card against K.C.C. is off. Craven-grove are not playing unless they take on K.C.C.

less shooting by the Navy, and fear of shooting on the part of the Army kept the total down.

HOQUARD IMPROVES.

If any Interport selectors were present, they probably found something comforting about the display of Ridley and Hoquard. They constituted the chief menace to the Navy defence, and personally I thought this the best game Hoquard has played for many weeks.

That he is still fearful of his leg weakness and needs a clear run and plenty of room in which to make his kicks was painfully obvious. Nevertheless, when given these opportunities (and thanks to Dick Ridley they were fairly numerous), Hoquard wasted no chances, and almost without exception planted the ball well in front of goal. His not impress. The neat passing was still there, but they failed sadly to round off their approach work. Langmead was slow and wouldn't shoot half enough.

Blair was a distinct success at centre-half, and is, any day I imagine, a real challenge to McGuire for that position. Purkins was another notable half back performer. The defence generally speaking was sound, West being particularly prominent.

GOOD SUBSTITUTION.

Pepper was a successful deputy for Liddington and several times effected very smart saves. Even if any of yesterday's substitutes have to appear in to-morrow's team I do not think the Navy will unduly suffer. All three men are very reliable. Barnett gave the Navy the lead in the first half, smartly heading

VETERAN WAR CHIEF

VON KROBATIN'S DEATH

FAMOUS AUSTRIAN FIELD-MARSHAL

Vienna, Dec. 28.

Field-Marshal Alexander von Krobatin, veteran Austro-Hungarian military leader, who was War Minister in the Dual Monarchy for the greater part of the Great War, passed away to-day.

He served Austria actively in the military sphere for nearly fifty years without a break. He was commander of the Austria Tenth Army at the end of the war even although he was then 69 years of age.

Born at Olmutz in 1849, he passed through the Artillery Academy and joined the garrison artillery as a lieutenant in 1869. Later he took the higher artillery course and in 1873 became a member of the Army Technical Committee. From 1874 to 1876 he studied at the Vienna Technical College, after which he was made lecturer on chemistry to artillery and engineer officers. He was given the "Von" in 1881.

IN WAR OFFICE.

His next important post was that of commandant of the Artillery Cadets' School at Vienna, to which he was appointed in 1890. He was made head of a department in the War Office in 1896 and was promoted major-general in 1900. Krobatin was recognised as a sound technical expert in munitions and

SALESMAN ROBS COOK

GETS MONTH'S HARD LABOUR

Tang Chi, aged 21 years, employed as salesman at the Wing On Company, was sentenced to one month's hard labour by Mr. Balfour in the Central Police Court this morning, for stealing $66, the property of Lo Ki, cook at the firm's mess.

It was stated that defendant had been employed by the Company for four years and his wages were $9 a month. About 7.30 a.m. on December 27, the complainant missed the key to his box and shortly after found that $66 had been taken. The watchman found the key and the complainant suspected the defendant. Questioned, the defendant admitted stealing, and when searched $64 was found on him. He had stolen the key in the first place.

He did successful work when he became chief of a section in 1904. Next year he was made "field marshal lieutenant," while in 1910 he succeeded General Polbrek as Master of the Ordnance.

BOLD LEADER.
It was in December, 1912, that Field-Marshal Krobatin became War Minister of the Dual Monarchy in succession to Auffenberg, holding this onerous post throughout the greater part of the war. He supported the army in the field by bold and comprehensive measure.

When he resigned in April 1917, he was made a Freiherr and was appointed to the command of the 10th Army, operating against Italy on the Carinthian and Tyrolean fronts. He retained this position until the collapse of the Empire.

Since then the veteran soldier, who was a bachelor, had lived with his sister at Vienna.—Reuter and Special.

CHINESE ADMIRAL'S DEATH

SUDDEN ATTACK OF PNEUMONIA

FORMER PREMIER

Shanghai, Dec. 29.

It is learned that Admiral Tu Hsi-kuei, the former Premier and ex-Minister of the Chinese Navy Department, died from a sudden attack of pneumonia on Wednesday afternoon at his Shanghai residence.

He was fifty-eight years of age. He is survived by his wife, three sons and five daughters, three of whom are married.

Admiral Tu Hsi-kuei arrived in Shanghai only a few weeks ago from Marmoi, the Fukienese port where he was Superintendent of the Chinese Naval College. He left when the rebellion occurred, with the Fukien declaration of independence.

Admiral Tu was a native of Foochow, and entered upon a naval career in the days of the Monarchy. He proved, however, a keen Republican and was appointed commander-in-chief in 1921. He was promoted Admiral in 1924 and became Navy Minister and acting Premier in 1926.

He was appointed principal of the Marmoi Naval College in July, 1931, and had held the post ever since.—Reuter.

Commander and Mrs. C.T. Addis returned to the Colony from Manila by the s.s. President Hoover.

She's FRESH!
She's saucy!
She bosses me around.
But I'm crazy about her.
